Hand Gunning Magazine July August 1994:

Journalism and Democracy Brian McNair, 2012-10-12 The public sphere is said to be in crisis Dumbing down tabloidisation infotainment and spin are alleged to contaminate it adversely affecting the quality of political journalism and of democracy itself There is a pervasive pessimism about the relationship between the media and democracy and widespread concern for the future of the political process Journalism and Democracy challenges this orthodoxy arguing instead for an alternative more optimistic evaluation of the contemporary public sphere and its contribution to the political process Brian McNair argues not only that the quantity of political information in mass circulation has expanded hugely in the late twentieth century but that political journalism has become steadily more rigorous and effective in its criticism of elites more accessible to the public and more thorough in its coverage of the political process Journalism and Democracy combines textual analysis and extensive in depth interviews with political journalists editors presenters and documentary makers In separate chapters devoted to the political news agenda the political interview punditry public access media and spin doctoring McNair considers whether dumbing down is a genuinely new trend in political journalism or a kind of moral panic provoked by suspicion of mass involvement in culture

Race, Rape, and Lynching Sandra Gunning, 1996-10-10 In the late nineteenth century the stereotype of the black male as sexual beast functioned for white supremacists as an externalized symbol of social chaos against which all whites would unite for the purpose of national renewal The emergence of this stereotype in American culture and literature during and after Reconstruction was related to the growth of white on black violence as white lynch mobs acted in defense of white womanhood the white family and white nationalism In Writing a Red Record Sandra Gunning investigates American literary encounters with the conditions processes and consequences of such violence through the representation of not just the black rapist stereotype but of other crucial stereotypes in mediating moments of white social crisis lascivious black womanhood avenging white masculinity and passive white femininity Gunning argues that these figures together signify the tangle of race and gender representation emerging from turn of the century American literature The book brings together Charles W Chestnutt Kate Chopin Thomas Dixon David Bryant Fulton Pauline Hopkins Mark Twain and Ida B Wells famous infamous or long neglected figures who produced novels essays stories and pamphlets in the volatile period of the 1890s through the early 1900s and who contributed to the continual renegotiation and redefinition of the terms and boundaries of a national dialogue on racial violence
