Commemorating the Polish Renaissance Child Jeannie Labno, 2016-05-23 The study of funeral monuments is a growing field but monuments erected to commemorate children have so far received little attention Whilst the practice of erecting monuments to the dead was widespread across Renaissance Europe the vast majority of these commemorated adults with children generally only appearing as part of their parents memorials However as this study reveals in Poland there developed a very different tradition of funerary monuments designed for and dedicated to individual children daughters as well as sons The book consists of five major parts which could be read in any order though the overall sequencing is based on the premise that an understanding of the context and background will enhance a reading of these fascinating child monuments Consequently there is a progression of knowledge presented from the broader context of the earlier parts towards the final parts where the actual child monuments are discussed in detail Thus the book begins with an overview of the wider cultural contexts of funerary monuments and where children fitted into this It then moves on to look at the forgotten Renaissance of central Europe and specifically the situation in Poland The middle part addresses the culture of memory examining the role of funerary monuments in reinforcing social religious and familial continuity The last parts deal with the physical monuments empirical data iconography and iconology Through this illuminating consideration of children s monuments the book raises a host of fascinating questions relating to Polish social and cultural life family structure attitudes to children and gender It also addresses the issue of why Poland witnessed this unusual development and what this tells us about the transmission of cultural and artistic ideas across Renaissance Europe Drawing upon social and cultural history visual and gender studies the work not only asks important new questions but provides a fresh perspective on some familiar topics and themes within Renaissance history confession that derived its significance from the promulgation of God's Word became a visually magnificent faith a faith whose adherents sought to captivate Christians hearts and minds through seeing as well as through hearing Although Protestantism is no longer understood as an exclusively word based religion the paradigm of evangelical ambivalence towards images retains its power This is the first study to offer an account of the Reformation origins and subsequent flourishing of the Lutheran baroque of the rich visual culture that developed in parts of the Holy Roman Empire during the later seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries The volume opens with a discussion of the legacy of the Wittenberg Reformation Three sections then focus on the confessional devotional and magnificent image exploring turning points in Lutherans attitudes towards religious art Drawing on a wide variety of archival printed and visual sources from two of the Empire's most important Protestant territories Saxony the heartland of the Reformation and Brandenburg A Magnificent Faith shows the extent to which Lutheran culture was shaped by territorial divisions It traces the development of a theologically grounded aesthetic and argues that images became prominent vehicles for the articulation of Lutheran identity not only amongst theologians but also amongst laymen and women By examining the role of images in the Lutheran tradition as it developed over the course of two centuries A Magnificent Faith offers a new understanding of the relationship between Protestantism and the visual arts
