Knowledge Synthesis Cultural Perspectives Translational:

Knowledge Synthesis Yoshiteru Nakamori, 2015-11-26 This book provides readers the idea of systemically synthesizing various kind of knowledge which needs to combine analytical thinking and synthetic thinking Systems science is expected to help in solving contemporary complex problems utilizing interdisciplinary knowledge effectively and combining analytical thinking and synthetic thinking efficiently However traditional systems science has been divided into two schools one seeks a systematic procedure to give a correct objective answer the other develops an emergent systemic process so that the user can continue exploratory learning It is not an exaggeration to say that analytical thinking and synthetic thinking have been developed independently in different schools This book integrates approaches developed in these two schools using ideas in knowledge science that have been emerging recently under the influence of Eastern thinking It emphasizes the importance of utilizing intuition in systems approaches whereas other books usually try to solve problems rationally and objectively rejecting subjectivity This book never denies rationality and objectivity however complex problems of today do not always yield to complete analysis The novelty of this present volume is that it takes in the ideas of synthetic thinking in knowledge science to develop systems science further The chapter contributors who are experienced systems scientists with a profound understanding of knowledge management discuss knowledge synthesis from the Western and Eastern cultural perspectives The book introduces a theory on systemic knowledge synthesis in an odd chapter and then presents an application of the theory in the next chapter in order to contribute to developing translational systems science

following four topics Translation and Interpreting Theory and Practice Translation and Cross cultural Studies Evaluation of Translation and Interpretation and Studies on the Teaching of Translation By no means is it difficult to find some interesting and thought provoking papers under each topic For example concerning Translation and Interpreting Theory and Practice To Translate or not to Translate That is the Question On Metaphor Translation in Chinese Political works by Dong Yu explains that in judging whether or not a Chinese metaphor can be translated into English an indispensable step is to decide whether or not the two cultural connotations can be connected But this can easily be influenced by subjective factors Yu has suggested some ways in which subjective factors could be controlled to some extent so that the translator could be more confident in his or her decision He has also suggested three steps The first step is to assume that the cultural connotation of the Chinese metaphor can be connected with that of its English version For example the metaphor in could be translated as rain or shine The second step is to find out whether or not this translated version is acceptable both linguistically and culturally in English The third step is to consider the systematicity of the metaphor in regard with the context in both the source and target texts This involves a process of recontextualization When it comes to Translation and Cross cultural Studies On Translation of the English Guide interpreter from the Perspective of Intercultural Communication by Fengxia Liua and Xiaoning Bi points out that inbound tourism serves as a window through which foreign tourists get to know China so the interaction between the guide interpreters and foreign tourists are the typical activity of cultural communication Foreign language speaking guides are usually regarded as people to people ambassadors or cultural ambassadors who have played an essential role in the international tourist industry Therefore they argue that it is extremely important for tourist guides to cultivate their cross cultural communication awareness enhance their overall communicative competence observe and distinguish east and west differences with multi dimensional perspective transcend cultural barriers and learn to use translation skills Studies on the Teaching of Translation is another interesting topic that has attracted enormous attention such as Business Translation Teaching from the Perspective of Metaphors by Dandan Li which explores application of conceptual metaphor theory in the translation process of business lexicons business discourse and business English culture so as to provide a new perspective in business English pedagogy Another study entitled Cognitive Studies in Translation by Xin Huang analyzes the cognitive studies of translation interpreting processes over the past three decades with focus on the issues examined the findings reached as well as the recent development She explains that cognitive studies of translation process examine the translation competence on line translation behaviors such as how the eye gazes and how the words are typed and the brain activities when doing translation Special interests are paid to the working memory problem solving the executive function and some linguistic relative factors such as text difficulty Over the past thirty years the interest in the field has been gaining considerable momentum and increasing issues have been involved Finally she concludes that with the advancement of technologies and interdisciplinary approaches the black box the previously unforeseeable cognitive activities

Unity from Diversity Ray W. Cooksey, 2024-07-15 This book is about the choices that researchers can make when building knowledge in social and behavioural spaces Knowledge is the unity we seek and given that social and behavioural research is a human endeavour focusing on human lives and experiences there are diverse and ever evolving pathways towards achieving that unity Any one pathway will only ever yield partial glimpses into human life and diversity of potential choices serves to enrich expand and enlarge those glimpses in pursuit of more complete understanding The book shows that researchers and the researched are far more connected than disconnected in this world and those connections are spread out through a network of interlinked complex systems The book argues that pluralist systemic thinking provides the means by which a researcher s methodological choices for navigating the Data Triangle comprising data source data gathering and data analysis strategies and the learning they provide can be fully and robustly contextualised with respect to those systems and the expectations and influences that emerge from them Such contextualisations facilitate the refinement augmentation and or narrowing of those choices during the researcher s journey Anticipating choices downstream may have implications for more immediate choices and more immediate choices may create a cascade of necessary downstream choices An essential part of contextualisation involves making choices about patterns of guiding assumptions modes of knowledge building and research frames Researchers must develop the capacity to be flexible and adapt to unanticipated emergent events obstacles and political influences making trade offs where necessary throughout their research journey always with an eye on both feasibility and quality Importantly research has no meaning unless the researcher can ensure that it connects with intended audiences via specific research outcomes especially since the ultimate judgments about the convincingness meaningfulness quality and utility of the research are vested in those audiences Throughout the book special attention is devoted to the role s that stakeholders and gatekeepers play in shaping the researcher s journey as well as to what can be learned from Indigenous First Nations perspectives on social and behavioural research protect knowledge For millennia medicinal plants have provided a trove of treatments for human ailments and the key to that treasure has been the traditional knowledge of the indigenous peoples who have lived alongside these plants More recently that knowledge has been taken often without consent or recompense by Western science as a springboard for the development of pharmaceutical agents As a response to threats to biodiversity and indigenous culture international mechanisms have created or are creating enforceable rights for indigenous peoples to control such knowledge With a background in pharmacology and molecular biology and significant experience as a lawyer in pharmaceutical and biotech patent litigation the author brings a fresh perspective to understanding the difficulties of enforcing such rights and in particular examines whether there is a philosophically justifiable limit to the downstream scope of such rights This book is aimed at all those with an interest in the control of indigenous genetic knowledge and the protection of indigenous culture whether academics anthropologists or pharmaceutical researchers and those seeking to make indigenous rights work as activists legislators or practising lawyers      ReThinking Management Wendelin Küpers,Stephan Sonnenburg,Martin Zierold,2017-02-27 This book assembles multi disciplinary contributions to delve deeper into ReThinking Management The first part provides some foundational considerations and inspirations Further chapters offer more specific links to the arts and creativity sectors as well as empirical research and case reflections ReThinking Management pursues the main idea that management theory is not merely a sub discipline of economics but rather a cross disciplinary and critical field of research and practice with a decidedly cultural perspective While questioning the status and practices of conventional management the book opens up for new understandings turns and perspectives      The Skin of the Film Laura U.
