Child and Adolescent Psychology Stephen von Tetzchner, 2018-10-26 Child and Adolescent Psychology provides an accessible and thorough introduction to human development by integrating insights from typical and atypical development. This integration cements understanding since the same processes are involved. Knowledge about atypical development informs the understanding of typical development and knowledge about typical development is a necessary basis for understanding atypical development and working with children with disorders. Based on international research and informed by biological, social, and cultural perspectives, the book provides explanations of developmental phenomena with a focus on how children and adolescents at different age levels actually think, feel, and act. Following a structure by topic with chronological developments within each chapter, von Tetzchner presents and contrasts the major theoretical ideas in developmental psychology and discusses their implications for different aspects of development. He also integrates information about sensory, physical, and cognitive disabilities and the main emotional and behavioral disorders of childhood and adolescence and the developmental consequences of these disabilities and disorders. Child and Adolescent Psychology is accompanied by online resources for lecturers and students to enhance the book, including essay questions for each chapter, Powerpoint slides, and multiple choice questions. The book and companion website will prove invaluable to developmental psychology students.

Handbook of Applied Developmental Science in Sub-Saharan Africa Amina Abubakar, Fons J.R. van de Vijver, 2017-11-17 This handbook collates research evidence and presents the most up to date findings on child development in Sub-Saharan Africa. It discusses complex risk factors and medical conditions affecting childhood outcomes and spotlights emerging programs for enhancing literacy and cognitive development. The panel of expert contributors offer needed context and knowledge to the discussion of previously understudied topics. Chapters present proven intervention strategies currently in use across the diverse region. In addition, this handbook provides guidelines for culturally sensitive and ethical research that will inform practice and help shape policy goals and initiatives. Topics featured in the Handbook include Fatherhood in the African context, Sibling care giving and its implications in Sub-Saharan Africa, Nutritional status, infections and child development, Diabetes in Sub-Saharan African children, How to adapt tests for Sub-Saharan Africa, Interventions aimed at children and caregivers, A culturally sensitive approach to conducting research and promoting initial literacy development in Africa. The Handbook of Applied Developmental Science in Sub-Saharan Africa is a must-have resource for researchers, professionals, scientists, practitioners, and graduate students in child, school, and developmental psychology, as well as pediatrics, social work, public health, and education.

Childhood and Adolescence Uwe P. Gielen, Jaipaul L. Roopnarine, 2016-01-11 This comprehensive reference analyzes psychological and anthropological studies concerning child and adolescent development across cultures, digging into often forgotten topics like street children, child soldiers, and parenting in war-torn countries. Traditionally, research on child and adolescent development has focused on American youth, inadvertently neglecting 96 percent of the world's children. This all-encompassing volume introduces global perspectives on young people across the globe focusing on such topics as parenting and childcare gender roles violence against girls adolescence in poor and rich countries and developmental psychopathology across cultures Recently updated the second edition includes the latest findings in the field additional content and new photos and charts With contributions from leading psychological and anthropological scholars chapters address worldwide changes in children s lives parent child relationships sibling relationships immigrant children and their families and adolescents in both industrialized and developing nations A special section discusses children living in difficult circumstances including street children child soldiers global nomads and children suffering from various internalizing and externalizing disorders This book is the perfect introduction to the latest trends in developmental psychology

The Heredity Hoax Richard M. Lerner, Gary Greenberg, 2025-01-30 This innovative and thought provoking book integrates both new authored material and reprints of existing literature that together provide a compelling narrative that reveals the fatally flawed science associated with genetic reductionist accounts of human behavior and development Through an interdisciplinary lens it illuminates the dynamic nature of human development empowering readers to question established notions and embrace the complexity of our potential Across the book the work of top tier scientists from developmental comparative educational and biological science illuminates theory and research converging on the conclusion that the multiple egregiously flawed work of genetic reductionists should be expunged from research pertinent to human development The book challenges the prevailing reductionist narratives and their application to social policies programs and uses in media Theoretically based and empirically rigorous this multidisciplinary approach to human development will shine a light on the inequities in individuals or groups that suggest that specific genes do not enable them to succeed in life The Heredity Hoax invites graduate programs and advanced undergraduate courses on human development human potential epigenetics and more to delve into the intricate interplay between genes environment and personal growth This will also serve as an unimpeachable source of evidence for researchers educators and social policymakers

Children in Changing Worlds Ross D. Parke, Glen H. Elder, Jr., 2019-08-08 Children live in rapidly changing times that require them to constantly adapt to new economic social and cultural conditions In this book a distinguished interdisciplinary group of scholars explores the issues faced by children in contemporary societies such as discrimination in school and neighborhoods the emergence of new family forms the availability of new communication technologies and economic hardship as well as the stresses associated with immigration war and famine The book applies a historical cultural and life course developmental framework for understanding the factors that affect how children adjust to these challenges and offers a new perspective on how changing historical circumstances alter children s developmental outcomes It is ideal for researchers and graduate students in developmental and educational psychology or the sociology and anthropology of childhood

Lansford, Diane L. Putnick, Susannah Zietz, 2022-09-09 This compelling volume advances the understanding of what parenting and related sociodemographic demographic and environmental variables look like and how they are associated with child development in low and middle income countries around the world. Specifically, expert authors document how child growth, caregiving practices, discipline and violence, and children's physical home environments, along with child and primary caregiver sociodemographic characteristics and household and national development demographic characteristics, are associated with central domains of early childhood development across a substantial fraction of the majority world, using contemporary 21st century data from the UNICEF Multiple Indicator Cluster Surveys and the UNICEF Early Childhood Development Index. The lives of nearly 160 000 girls and boys aged 3 to 5 years in nationally representative samples from 51 low and middle income countries are sampled to address 7 principal questions about children, caregiving, and contexts.

Parenting and Child Development in Low and Middle Income Countries takes an authentically international approach to parenting, the environment, and child development in cultural contexts that more fully characterize the world's diversity. Parenting and Child Development in Low and Middle Income Countries is essential reading for researchers and students of parenting, psychology, human development, family studies, sociology, and cultural studies, as well as governmental and non-governmental professionals working with families in low and middle income countries.
