Development for the 21st Century David O'Connor,Monica Kjollerstrom,2008-06-01 With very few exceptions industrial development has been central to the process of structural transformation which characterises economic development Industrial Development for the 21st century examines the new challenges and opportunities arising from globalization technological change and new international trade rules The first part focuses on key sectors with potential for developing countries focussing on two key themes First traditional points of entry for late industrializers like textiles and clothing have become even more intensely competitive than ever before requiring more innovative adaptive strategies for success Second countries now recognize that manufacturing does not exhaust the opportunities for producing high value added goods and services for international markets Knowledge intensity is increasing across all spheres of economic activity including agriculture and services which can offer promising development paths for some developing countries The final section addresses social and environmental aspects of industrial development Labour intensive but not necessarily other patterns of industrial development can be highly effective in poverty reduction though further industrial progress may be less labour intensive A range of policies can promote industrial energy and materials efficiency often with positive impacts on firms financial performance as well as the environment Promoting materials recycling and reuse is an effective if indirect means of conserving resources Finally the growth of multinational interest in corporate social responsibility is traced with consideration given to both the barriers and opportunities this can pose for developing country enterprises linked to global supply chains

Baskaran, 2013-01-29 The most popularised concept in the economics of innovation literature has been the national system of innovation NSI It was in the late 1980s that the concept that Frederik List coined as the National Political Economy of Production took off again with different thinkers writing about the peculiarities and distinctions of the Japanese American British German East Asian Tigers and other varieties of system construction Freeman defines National System of Innovation as the network of institutions in the public and private sectors whose activities and interactions initiate import modify and diff use new technologies Richard Nelson defines it as a set of institutions whose interactions determine the innovative performance of national firms Lundvall defines the system of innovation as the elements and relationships which interact in the production diffusion and use of new and economically useful knowledge and are either located within or rooted inside the borders of a nation state The normative assumption is that those nations that succeeded in building economic strength relied on the science engineering technology and innovation capability that made them to achieve an innovation advantage to put them ahead in the world acquiring national or regional economic leadership as the case may be depending on what level of analyses is selected to look at particular failure success or progress they made In this volume we have a glimpse of how in different African economies from Ghana Uganda Kenya South Africa and Nigeria specific cases have been taken to explore how systems of innovation is evolving
