Guy Mannering or The Astrologer is a novel by Sir Walter Scott published anonymously in 1815. According to an introduction that Scott wrote in 1829, he had originally intended to write a story of the supernatural but changed his mind soon after starting. The book was a huge success, the first edition selling out on the first day of publication. Guy Mannering is set in the 1760s to 1780s, mostly in the Galloway area of southwest Scotland, but with episodes in Cumberland, Holland, and India. It tells the story of Harry Bertram, the son of the Laird of Ellangowan, who is kidnapped at the age of five by smugglers after witnessing the murder of a customs officer. It follows the fortunes and adventures of Harry and his family in subsequent years and the struggle over the inheritance of Ellangowan. The novel also depicts the lawlessness that existed at the time when smugglers operated along the coast and thieves frequented the country roads.

Guy Mannering or The Astrologer Sir Walter Scott

Guy Mannering or The Astrologer is a novel by Sir Walter Scott published anonymously in 1815. According to an introduction that Scott wrote in 1829, he had originally intended to write a story of the supernatural but changed his mind soon after starting. The book was a huge success, the first edition selling out on the first day of publication. The Novel or Romance of Waverley made its way to the public slowly, of course, at first, but afterwards with such accumulating popularity as to encourage the Author to a second attempt. He looked about for a name and a subject and the manner in which the novels were composed cannot be better illustrated than by reciting the simple narrative on which Guy Mannering was originally founded, but to which, in the progress of the work, the production ceased to bear any even the most distant resemblance. The tale was originally told me by an old servant of my father's, an excellent old Highlander without a fault, unless a preference to mountain dew over less potent liquors be accounted one. He believed as firmly in the story as in any part of his creed. A grave and elderly person, according to old John MacKinlay's account, while travelling in the wilder parts of Galloway, was benighted. With difficulty he found his way to a country seat where, with the hospitality of the time and country, he was readily admitted. The owner of the house, a gentleman of good fortune, was much struck by the reverend appearance of his guest and apologised to him for a certain degree of confusion which must unavoidably attend his reception and could not escape his eye. The lady of the house, as he said, was confined to her apartment, and on the point of making her husband a father for the first time, though they had been ten years married. At such an emergency, the laird said, he feared his guest might meet with some apparent neglect.
