As the speed control lever is changed from the cruise speed to high speed, the governor spring tension increases to compress the torque spring and move the link lever 1 in the direction of the arrow A.

When the engine is restarted, the engine starting speed decreases and the centrifugal force of flywheel weight decreases. Then the torque spring moves the link lever 1 in the direction of arrow A.

The control valve moves in the direction that increases fuel supply to increase the output. It is balanced with the centrifugal force of the flywheel weight to produce the speed-output (torque-output).
