Lighthouses of Texas Steph McDougal, 2014 Not long after winning their independence from Mexico in 1836 Texans began clamoring for lighthouses Hundreds of miles of barrier islands shifting sandbars and shallow bays made the Texas coast treacherous at a time when few overland routes provided access to the new republic Beginning in 1852 twenty eight lighthouses were built along the Texas coastline on land and over water Lighthouse service was often a family affair with husbands wives and children working together as keepers and assistants For nearly 70 years construction continued as coastal erosion hurricanes and wars regularly damaged or destroyed those lighthouses already built These sentinels of the sea lessened but did not eliminate the chance of shipwreck so lifesaving stations manned by able seamen with unsinkable surfboats were established as well As Texass lighthouses were gradually automated throughout the 20th century many were sold to private owners or abandoned Today several have been restored and two at Aransas Pass and Port Isabel still function as aids to navigation Amazon come
