Stranded at the Red Moss Vineyard a week before her best friend's wedding, LA native and professional matchmaker Alice Weatherford is not pleased with her first trip to Oklahoma or the epic snowstorm forcing her to stay. Gorgeous, charming, and unlike any other man she's ever met, finding the right woman for Clay should be easy. Having grown up with the Bellini sisters, it's no hardship for Clay to ride out the storm at their cozy family vineyard, especially since that means spending time with their savvy and smart houseguest. But despite Alice's best efforts, he's not the least bit interested in her matchmaking. Alice is the only woman Clay wants. Now he just has to convince the matchmaker herself to give love a chance. Television Across Asia Michael Keane, Albert Moran, 2003-10-16. This book explores the trade in television program formats, which is a crucially important ingredient in the globalisation of culture in Asia. It examines how much traffic there is in program formats, the principal direction of flow of such traffic, and the economic and cultural significance of this trade for the territories involved and for the region as a whole. It shows how new technology, deregulation, privatisation, and economic recession have greatly intensified competition between broadcasters in Asia, as in other parts of the world, and discusses how this in turn has multiplied the incidence of television format remakes, with some countries developing dedicated format companies and others becoming net importers and adapters of formats. immigrant community but now she's ambushing Raina with a list of suitable bachelors. Is it too much to ask for a little space? Besides what Nani doesn't know won't hurt her. As Raina's life spirals into a parade of Nani-approved bachelors and disastrous blind dates, she must find a way out of this modern-day arranged marriage trap without shattering her beloved grandmother's dreams. The Matchmaker's Surrender Tammy L. Burton, 2023-12-12 A millionaire and a woman who thinks he's a house flipper are stuck living in a house together with a menagerie of rescue dogs as roommates in this heartfelt romantic comedy from New York Times bestselling author Jaci Burton. After her ex took all their money and bailed, Hazel Bristow is left broke and homeless. A kind friend whose home is on the market lets Hazel and her foster dogs stay there until it sells. It's the perfect setup until her friend forgets to tell Hazel she's sold the house. He agrees to let her remain while he's renovating the place. Linc tells Hazel he's an investor who renovates homes for fun; he just leaves out the part about being wealthy. Hazel's intrigued by Linc. He's funny, sweet, ridiculously hot, and loves dogs almost as much as she does. But her track record with men? Not great. She worries her trust meter isn't in working order. Games in the Global Village Anne Cooper-Chen, 1994. Q: What is the most watched TV format in history seen by about 100 million people weekly around the world? A: Wheel of Fortune, a game show. Without putdowns or pandering, the author looks at 260 such shows concluding that culture has triumphed over technology. For despite our capacity to transmit the same content world wide, McLuhan's global village has not come to pass. Technology has however encouraged already existing cultural continents to coalesce. About one third of the world's game shows have been licensed or adapted from another country, especially from the United States. Conversely, a single program can cross borders unchanged, such as Sabado Gigante, which appeals to Spanish speakers in 18 countries. The first truly global study of TV entertainment, this book includes interviews with producers, contestants, and licensors. With its tables, illustrations, and appendices, the text provides details on content and audiences, as well as explanatory overviews. A Matchmaker's Christmas Donna Lea Simpson, 2014-12-17. But Lady Bournaud, trying to make amends for her own selfish ways, is opening her country estate to a few select guests for the holidays, including the man Beatrice wronged so many years ago. Sir David Chappell spent nearly two decades coming to terms with the haunting memory of his wife's death. When he receives an invitation to Lady Bournaud's for the Christmas season, he's reluctant to go at first, but he's sure the time away in Yorkshire will be a welcome change from London. Once there, he's immediately captivated by the youthful beauty and genuine compassion of the lady's companion, Beatrice Copland, all the while sensing that he's met her before. Even as David pursues her and Beatrice realizes she's still powerfully attracted to the man, she must gently rebuff his advances for fear that her damning secret will come to light and reopen his old wounds. The Riddle of Freud Estelle Roith,2005-08-12 In The Riddle of Freud Estelle Roith argues that certain important elements of Judaic culture were so integral a part of Freud s personality that they became visible in his work and especially in his attitudes to and theories of femininity Freud s formulation of femininity which the author contends is mistaken is seen not as a simple error but as resulting from a complex bias in which personal and social factors are interrelated The author proposes that the considerable ambivalence experienced by Freud about his sexual cultural and social identity in which both overt and covert aspects of his Jewish culture survived could not be surmounted by him in the case of women Estelle Roith describes Freud's theory of femininity and its implications for psychoanalytic theories of human development and motivation in general. She examines Freud's relationships with his women disciples and also the social and political conditions that obtained for Jews of Freud's time. Finally her book helps illuminate the reasons for Freud's emphasis on the paternal power within the Oedipus complex. It is essential reading for psychoanalysts and psychotherapists for students of women's issues and all those interested in Freud's impact on contemporary Western thought.
