Lowering the Boom Jay Beck, Tony Grajeda, 2008-08-08 Amplifying the importance of sound in cinema Ubiquitous Musics Marta García Quiñones, Anahid Kassabian, Elena Boschi, 2016-02-17 Ubiquitous Musics offers a multidisciplinary approach to the pervasive presence of music in everyday life The essays address a variety of situations in which music is present alongside other activities and does not demand focused attention from sometimes involuntary listeners The contributors present different theoretical perspectives on the increasing ubiquity of music and its implications for the experience of listening The collection consists of nine essays divided into three sections Histories Technologies and Spaces The first section addresses the historical origins of functional music and the debates on how reproduced music including a wide range of styles and genres spread so quickly across so many environments The second section focuses on more contemporary sound technologies including mobile phones in India the role of visible playback technology in film and listening to portable digital players The final section reflects on settings such as malls stores gyms offices and cars in which ubiquitous musics are often present but rarely thought about This last section and ultimately the whole collection seeks to foster a wider understanding of listening practices by lending a fresh critical ear There is no soundtrack Ming-Yuen S. Ma, 2020-06-24 There is no soundtrack is a study of how sound and image produce meaning in contemporary experimental media art by artists ranging from Chantal Akerman to Nam June Paik to Tanya Tagaq It contextualises these works and artists through key ideas in sound studies voice noise listening the soundscape and more The book argues that experimental media art produces radical and new audio visual relationships challenging the visually dominated discourses in art media and the human sciences In addition to directly addressing what Jonathan Sterne calls visual hegemony it also explores the lack of diversity within sound studies by focusing on practitioners from transnational and diverse backgrounds As such it contributes to a growing interdisciplinary scholarship building new more complex and reverberating frameworks to collectively sonify the study of culture The ^AOxford Handbook of New Audiovisual Aesthetics John Richardson, Claudia Gorbman, Carol Vernallis, 2013-08-20 This handbook provides powerful ways to understand changes in the current media landscape Media forms and genres are proliferating as never before from movies computer games and iPods to video games and wireless phones This essay collection by recognized scholars practitioners and non academic writers opens discussion in exciting new directions CineMusic? Constructing the Film Score David Cooper, Christopher Fox, Ian Sapiro, 2020-12-15 What has been described as second generation film musicology is both building on and challenging the orthodoxies of the pioneering work of scholars who published in the final two decades of the twentieth century CineMusic Constructing the Film Score is representative of this new scholarship approaching the construction of the film score from a number of perspectives from the primarily practical to the more abstract and theoretical The films that form the basis of these reflections are similarly diverse from art house to mainstream classical to postmodern This volume includes essays by established and upcoming scholars and practitioners as well as interviews with two of the UK's most influential film composers Trevor Jones Mississippi Burning Brassed Off Notting Hill The League of Extraordinary Gentlemen and Michael Nyman The Draughtsman's Contract The Piano Gattaca The Libertine An afterward by Anahid Kassabian proposes a number of areas that are ripe for further exploration

The McGurk Universe K.J. Donnelly, 2023-01-01 This book reconsiders audiovisual culture through a focus on human perception with recourse to ideas derived from recent neuroscience It proceeds from the assumption that rather than simply working on a straightforward cognitive level audiovisual culture also functions more fundamentally on a physiological level directly exploiting precise aspects of human perception Vision and hearing are unified in a merged signal in the brain through being processed in the same areas This is illustrated by the startling McGurk Effect whereby the perception of spoken sound is changed by its accompanying image and counterpart effects which demonstrate that what we see is affected by different sounds accompanying sounds This blending of sound and images into a whole has become a universal aspect of culture not only evident in films and television but also in video games and short Internet clips Indeed this aesthetic formation has become the dominant of this period The McGurk Universe attends to how audiovisual culture engages with and mediates between physiological and psychological levels Japanese Horror and the Transnational Cinema of Sensations Steven T. Brown, 2018-02-05 Japanese Horror and the Transnational Cinema of Sensations undertakes a critical reassessment of Japanese horror cinema by attending to its intermediality and transnational hybridity in relation to world horror cinema Neither a conventional film history nor a thematic survey of Japanese horror cinema this study offers a transnational analysis of selected films from new angles that shed light on previously ignored aspects of the genre including sound design framing techniques and lighting as well as the slow attack and long release times of J horror's slow burn style which have contributed significantly to the development of its dread filled cinema of sensations The Odyssey of Communism Michaela Praisler, Oana-Celia Gheorghiu, 2021-05-14 This volume looks into the ways in which film has contaminated and re shaped culture's and the collective unconscious at both local and global levels arguing that our lives have been impacted by the then that we keep revisiting lest we forget It takes the reader from the Berlin Wall to China and from the terror of communist political prisons and labour camps to the rosy image promoted by propaganda A key point throughout the text is its interdisciplinary nature as it brings together literature and film scholars directors sociologists and philosophers whose overall conclusion is that communism lingering in mentalities still needs interrogation Structured along four parts which trace a Homeric or rather Joycean journey to a home metonymised by the long awaited freedom this book sets out from the gloomiest aspects of totalitarianism in the Romanian Serbian and Soviet Hadeses of traumatic psychological and physical experiences and of imposed silencing The second part gathers together case studies of films illustrating more optimistic views of communism as spring in the USSR or as a golden age in Romania thus narcotising the communist subjects and preventing them from seeing the actual inferno The third section offers filmic accounts of the aftermaths of communism engaging the readers in a nostalgic process that revisits questions reflects on and remembers communism on a larger world stage The coda rounds up the volume and the journey therein by crossing genre frontiers to written narratives with a cinematic component The Oxford Handbook of Cinematic Listening Carlo Cenciarelli, 2021 Defines a new area of interdisciplinary research Looks at the ways in which listening to film is situated in textual spatial and historical practices Covers a broad span of film history from early cinema and European art cinema to contemporary science fiction and live score screenings Extends the study of film sound beyond film considering cinema in relation to media ranging from shadow plays and photograph musicals to video games and VR Book jacket
