Branches to Heaven James Como,2015-12-30 Of Edmund Spenser C S Lewis wrote his work is one like a growing thing a tree with branches to heaven and roots to hell And in between these two extremes comes all the multiplicity of human life This book seeks to demonstrate the aptness of that quotation when applied to Lewis himself From his deepest emotional and psychological landscape to his prevailing temperament and then to his training Lewis marshaled his magnificent rhetorical skills on behalf of his vocation to make Christianity a reasonable and inviting alternative to doubters In this and through the many genres of which he was a master he never wavered These are the branches the available means of persuasion as Aristotle put it Sources influences experience and his very self these are the roots A close look at these with a combination of argument critical analysis and some fresh connections finally yield an unexpected portrait C S Lewis and his work are indeed one with deeper roots and loftier branches than the current reputation of the master and his avuncular persona suggest

Faith-Based Education That Constructs HeeKap Lee, 2010-08-09 Constructivism is everywhere It is a hot issue at this time in the field of philosophy education technology and religion However can constructivism be an alternative approach in faith based education While some conclude that Jesus knew learning was an active knowledge creating process and that he always encouraged his disciples to think deeply and go beyond the surface level others would find that constructivism undercuts faith based education because of its claims to relativity For example constructivists claim that meaning is imposed on the world by us rather than existing in the world independently from us Thus they proclaim that truth is relative to particular times places and people Christians hold that truth does exist absolutely So how can there be a way forward for faith based educators who see the good in the constructivist approach In Faith Based Education that Constructs readers will find a unique approach whereby constructivism may appropriately be applied to a faith based education setting Although disagreement can occur between constructivism and faith based education this book concludes that constructivist thought and Christian faith based education are in the end congruent and harmonious in significant ways Those faith based educators who continue to hold cautionary views of radical constructivist assertions against absolute truths need not disregard all other aspects of constructivism
