Sustainable Urbanism in China Ali Cheshmehzangi, Ayotunde Dawodu, Ayyoob Sharifi, 2021-08-16 Sustainable Urbanism in China explores the notion of Sustainable Urbanism by considering the role sustainable neighborhood planning plays in the larger picture of sustainable urbanism and suggests innovations and best practices that are either developed or adopted by China. These are narrated as lessons learnt for other countries where we see similar trends of development patterns or emerging practices. Through various explorations of challenges, paradigms and innovations of urban sustainability, this book highlights how planning policy and design are forming and reforming in the context of China. These are offered through a set of guidelines and pathways for urban sustainability at the scale of neighborhoods, communities or districts in a wider context of urban environments as well as strategies for planners, developers, policy makers and educators in the field of the built environment. Through a comprehensive overview of urban sustainability practices in China, this book investigates 12 case study projects. These comprehensive explorations should in turn help construct the future directions of China's sustainable urban development and provide innovative pathways of sustainable urbanism in China and around the globe.

Global Green Infrastructure Ian Mell, 2016-03-10. Over the last decade, research exploring green infrastructure planning has burgeoned. Transferable green infrastructure messages between locations though are less well established and there remains a visible gap between the conceptual understanding of green infrastructure and its application in practice. Drawing together evaluations of green infrastructure policy making and practice from across the world, Global Green Infrastructure illustrates where successful practices can be identified. Examples from major green infrastructure development areas in the UK, Europe and the USA highlight the variety of investment options that can deliver socio-economic benefits. There is also a growing awareness of the added value of landscape planning in the rapidly developing cities of India and China. Reflecting on ten international case studies, Global Green Infrastructure highlights the ways that ecology and engineered solutions can deliver successful urban development. Based on in situ research with the growing community of green infrastructure researchers and practitioners, Global Green Infrastructure looks at the contradictions, consensus and expanding evidence base of successful investments. This book also presents an in depth commentary on the contemporary approaches to investment in urban greening and green infrastructure and draws on the lessons we have learnt from a decade of experimentation, delivery and reflection.

Australian Environmental Planning is vital reading for more sustainable cities in a more sustainable world Rethinking Suburbs Khaled Alawadi,2024-04-11 Rethinking suburbs provides answers to how can we design and plan neighborhoods in which non motorized mobility is a viable and efficient alternative and how the street systems and alleys of neighborhoods can be designed and retrofitted to make their urban fabrics more efficient and integrated Streets play significant roles in meeting multiple sustainability objectives This research addresses Abu Dhabi s and Dubai s street connectivity at the neighborhood local and city global scales It focuses on two parameters of street network analysis efficiency and centrality Efficiency is evaluated in terms of directness noting that network designs that provide short and direct access between origins and destinations are more efficient Centrality is evaluated using graph theory metrics that enable the identification of high and low accessibility locations within networks The conventional suburban model of low density automobile centric development with fragmented streets cannot foster high levels of accessibility within neighborhoods This study offers an alternative evidence based suburban design model for future cities The Age of Sustainability Mark Swilling,2019-11-06 With transitions to more sustainable ways of living already underway this book examines how we understand the underlying dynamics of the transitions that are unfolding Without this understanding we enter the future in a state of informed bewilderment Every day we are bombarded by reports about ecosystem breakdown social conflict economic stagnation and a crisis of identity There is mounting evidence that deeper transitions are underway that suggest we may be entering another period of great transformation equal in significance to the agricultural revolution some 13 000 years ago or the Industrial Revolution 250 years ago This book helps readers make sense of our global crisis and the dynamics of transition that could result in a shift from the industrial epoch that we live in now to a more sustainable and equitable age The global renewable energy transition that is already underway holds the key to the wider just transition However the evolutionary potential of the present also manifests in the mushrooming of ecocultures new urban visions sustainability oriented developmental states and new ways of learning and researching Shedding light on the highly complex challenge of a sustainable and just transition this book is essential reading for anyone concerned with establishing a more sustainable and equitable world Ultimately this is a book about hope but without easy answers Historical Dictionary of Australia Norman Abjorensen,James C.

Routledge Handbook of Landscape and Food Joshua Zeunert,Tim Waterman,2018-02-02 Since the turn of the millennium there has been a burgeoning interest in and literature of both landscape studies and food studies Landscape describes places as relationships and processes Landscapes create people's identities and guide their actions and their preferences while at the same time are shaped by the actions and forces of people Food as currency medium and sustenance is a fundamental part of those landscape relationships This volume brings together over fifty contributors from around the world in forty profoundly interdisciplinary chapters Chapter authors represent an astonishing range of disciplines from agronomy anthropology archaeology conservation countryside management cultural studies ecology ethics geography heritage studies landscape architecture landscape management and planning literature urban design and architecture Both food studies and landscape studies defy comprehension from the perspective of a single discipline and thus such a range is both necessary and enriching The Routledge Handbook of Landscape and Food is intended as a first port of call for scholars and researchers seeking to undertake new work at the many intersections of landscape and food Each chapter provides an authoritative overview a broad range of pertinent readings and references and Cities will continue to accommodate the automobile but when cities are built around them the quality of human and natural life declines Current trends show great promise for future urban mobility systems that enable freedom and connection but not dependence We are experiencing the phenomenon of peak car use in many global cities at the same time that urban rail is thriving central cities are revitalizing and suburban sprawl is reversing Walking and cycling are growing in many cities along with ubiquitous bike sharing schemes which have contributed to new investment and vitality in central cities including Melbourne Seattle Chicago and New York We are thus in a new era that has come much faster than global transportation experts Peter Newman and Jeffrey Kenworthy had predicted the end of automobile dependence In The End of Automobile Dependence Newman and Kenworthy look at how we can accelerate a planning approach to designing urban environments that can function reliably and conveniently on alternative modes with a refined and more civilized automobile playing a very much reduced and manageable role in urban transportation The authors examine the rise and fall of automobile dependence using updated data on 44 global cities to better understand how to facilitate and guide cities to the most productive and sustainable outcomes This is the final volume in a trilogy by Newman and Kenworthy on automobile dependence Cities and Automobile Dependence in 1989 and Sustainability and Cities Overcoming Automobile Dependence in 1999 Like all good trilogies this one shows the rise of an empire in this case that of the automobile the peak of its power and the decline of that empire Indian Ocean Futures Timothy Doyle, Graham Seal, 2018-04-19 Indian Ocean studies which once lagged behind
