Alphabetical and Numerical System of Vertical Filing

This system represents one of the first attempts at combining alphabetical subdivisions with numbers. We illustrate it here because it has been adopted in many offices before the advent of the "Direct-Name" system, and we are still called upon for supplies.

The cabinets are the same as those used for other Vertical Systems.

Note the Shannon Metal Perforated Expansion between the sides of this cabinet. You neither have to carry your load a Shannon Drawer, it will travel easily and silently by the touch of a finger.

Red guides are the signals which indicate where the papers should be filed.

The blue tab letters are for the Shannon carrying cabinets of that division of the alphabet, thus John Baker's first letter is filed in the blue folder with other B's letters (see No. 4 in illustration), but when he becomes an active or regular correspondent, his letters are placed in a numbered tab letter and his name is registered on the index to Folder card.

Direct-Name System of Vertical Filing

If the matter to be filed does not require cross indexing, the Direct-Name System is by far the simplest to follow. This system combines the alphabetical and numerical, and is a great improvement on the old alphabetical-numerical plan illustrated, as all the correspondence is filed alphabetically and the firm name required is always before the eye when the cabinet is opened.

BRAIN POINT.

The efficiency of all vertical filing systems depends entirely on the guides, which act as "sign posts." The Shannon Direct-Name System is undoubtedly the easiest to install and maintain.
