Lands End Capitalist Relations On An Indigenous Frontier:

Land's End Tania Murray Li, 2014-08-13 Drawing on two decades of ethnographic research in Sulawesi Indonesia Tania Murray Li offers an intimate account of the emergence of capitalist relations among indigenous highlanders who privatized their common land to plant a boom crop cacao Spurred by the hope of ending their poverty and isolation some prospered while others lost their land and struggled to sustain their families Yet the winners and losers in this transition were not strangers they were kin and neighbors Li's richly peopled account takes the reader into the highlanders world exploring the dilemmas they faced as sharp inequalities emerged among them The book challenges complacent modernization narratives promoted by development agencies that assume inefficient farmers who lose out in the shift to high value export crops can find jobs elsewhere Decades of uneven and often jobless growth in Indonesia meant that for newly landless highlanders land's end was a dead end The book also has implications for social movement activists who seldom attend to instances where enclosure is initiated by farmers rather than coerced by the state or agribusiness corporations Li's attention to the historical cultural and ecological dimensions of this conjuncture demonstrates the power of the ethnographic method and its relevance to theory and practice today

The Politics of Land Tim Bartley,2019-03-13 This volume renews the political sociology of land Chapters examine dynamics of political control and contention in a range of settings including land grabs in Asia and Africa expulsions and territorial control in South America environmental regulation in Europe and controversies over fracking gentrification and property taxes in the USA

The Political Economy of Land Mika Hyötyläinen,Robert Beauregard,2022-11-30 Recent years have seen a gathering interest in the importance of real estate development to the growth and development of cities This has included theoretical work on such topics as land rent and property rights as well as empirical studies on property investments assetization securitization and the effects of changing property values on economic growth and the global status of cities In the field of urban political economy attention has turned particularly to the financialization of land and the built environment and to the globalization of property ownership real estate development and architectural design This edited volume brings together a collection of original investigations of the current thinking on three broad themes the assetization of land and buildings the relationship of land rent to valuation and speculation in the markets for private and public properties and the different ways in which land functions as a social relation In order to ground the discussion each chapter combines a theoretical perspective with empirical evidence And to convey a sense of the global nature of these phenomena the book includes cases from Finland India Spain Singapore Hong Kong Japan Italy China and the United States Although its prime goal is to solidify and extend the political economy of land this book is also a celebration of the Finnish scholar Anne Haila who was a major contributor to this literature and specifically to the work of this book's authors Prior to her sudden death in 2019 she was a key figure in the discussions that are at the core of the political economy of land this book in part is a public acknowledgement of her contributions De-centring Land Grabbing Peter

Vandergeest, Laura Schoenberger, 2019-10-23 Southeast Asia has been portrayed as a key site in the global land grab Featuring leading scholars in the field this collection critically examines the nature and extent of land grabbing in Southeast Asia and seeks to locate this phenomena in broader agrarian and environmental transitions AET The individual contributions suggest that there is little evidence of a global land grab in Southeast Asia but that over the last ten years the surge of plantations and processes of land grabbing has been a key feature in the region The collection considers how broader AET processes may be brought more clearly into focus by decentring land grabbing including consideration of its absence as well as presence The diversity of cases in this collection coalesces around the productive tension in land grab studies between global capitalist processes on the one hand and context specificity and contingent motivations fuelling the expansion of large scale plantations for oil palm rubber cassava and other cash crops on the other hand The contributors further broaden the entry points to consider cross sectoral AET processes such as enclosures for mining conservation and hydropower and explore the contingencies that help to maintain smallholder production The chapters originally published as a special issue in The Journal of Peasant Studies

Essential Concepts of Land Politics Saturnino M. Borrás Jr., Jennifer C. Franco, 2025-06-13 This book compiles, discusses and explains the key concepts in land politics in an easy-to-navigate A-Z format This book takes a broad view on land across the rural and urban corridor and advocates for a holistic view of the politics of land as an aggregation of land and global social life that is the politics of food, climate, labour, citizenship and geopolitics The authors have curated a wide-ranging list of 67 key terms most commonly used in the field with each entry mapping out an important concept or idea and illustrating how it relates more broadly across this growing discipline Across the entries the book showcases that land has been and remains central to productive and social reproductive activities of humanity for the incessant renewal of life and society. A key assumption in this book is that the politics of land is made up of building blocks in the form of key concepts. These key concepts evolve both in the sense that they are politically contested and in the changing broader context within which they are embedded. The key concepts in this book are therefore not discussed in a random way but rather framed from Critical Agrarian Studies perspectives and scholar activist tradition which means taking the side of the exploited and oppressed. With further reading recommendations included alongside the entries, this innovative and accessible volume will be of great interest to students, scholars, policy practitioners and political activists. Gardens of

Gold Jamon Alex Halvaksz, 2020-08-31 This is a soya bean the Biangai villager explained a money bean. Since the start of colonial gold mining in the early 1920s the Biangai villagers of Elauru and Winima in Papua New Guinea have moved away from planting yams and other subsistence foods to instead cultivating coffee and other cash crops and dishing for tradable flakes of gold. Decades of industrial gold mining, land development, conservation efforts and biological research have wrought transformations in the landscape and entwined traditional Biangai gardening practices with Western capital, disrupting the relationship between place and person and the social reproduction of a community. Drawing from extensive ethnographic research, Jamon Halvaksz examines the role of place in informing indigenous relationships with conservation and development. How do Biangai make meaning with the physical world? Collapsing Western distinctions between self and an earthly other, Halvaksz shows us it is a sense of place grounded in productive relationships between nature and culture that connects Biangai to one another as placepersons and enables them to navigate global forces amid changing local and regional economies. Centering local responses along the frontiers of resource extraction, Gardens of Gold contributes to our understanding of how neoliberal economic practices intervene in place based economies and identities. Becoming Landowners Victoria C. Stead, 2016-10-31 Across Melanesia the ways in which people connect to land are being transformed by processes of modernization, globalization, the building of states and nations, practices and imaginaries of development, the legacies of colonialism and the complexities of postcolonial encounters. Melanesian peoples are becoming landowners. Stead argues both in the sense that these processes of change compel forms of property relations and in the sense that landowner and custom landowner become identities to be wielded against the encroachment of both state and capital. In places where customary forms of land tenure have long been dominant, deeply intertwined with senses of self and relationships with others, land now becomes a crucible upon which social relations, power and culture are reconfigured and reimagined. Employing a multi-sited ethnographic approach, Becoming Landowners explores these transformations to land and life as they unfold across two Melanesian countries. The chapters move between coasts and inland mountain ranges, between urban centers and rural villages, telling the stories of people and places who are always situated and particular but who also share powerful commonalities of experience. These include a subsistence based community shaped by the legacies of colonialism and occupation in remote Timor Leste villagers in Papua New Guinea resisting a mining operation and the government agents supporting it an urban East Timorese settlement resisting eviction by the nation state its residents hoped would represent them in the post independence era and people and groups in both countries who are struggling for with and sometimes against the formal codification of their claims to land and place In each of these instances customary and modern forms of connection to land are propelled into complex and dynamic configurations theorized here in an innovative way as entanglements of custom and modernity Moving between multiple sites scales and forms of collectivity Becoming Landowners reveals entanglements as spaces of deep ambivalence Here structures of power are destabilized in ways that can lend themselves to the diminishing of local autonomy in the face of the state and capital At the same time the destabilization of power also creates new possibilities for the reassertion of that autonomy and of the customary forms of connection to land in which it is grounded

Land and Development in Indonesia John F McCarthy, 2017-03-09 Indonesia was founded on the ideal of the e Sovereignty of the People which suggests the pre eminence of people s rights to access use and control land to support their livelihoods Yet many questions remain unresolved How can the state ensure access to land for agriculture and housing while also supporting land acquisition for investment in industry and infrastructure What is to be done about indigenous rights Do registration and titling provide solutions Is the land reform agenda e legislated but never implementede still relevant How should the land questions affecting Indonesia s disappearing forests be resolved The contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago from large scale land acquisitions in Papua to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan Sulawesi and Sumatra What are the prospects for the e people s sovereignty in regard to land

Post-Colonial Globalisation Yonit Manor-Percival, Janet Dine, 2023-09-22 With the globalist project immersed in conflicts and adversity Post Colonial Globalisation offers an insight into the actors who animate it and the power dynamics which run through it Using the law as the prism through which these are examined and fusing historical with contemporary perspectives the book contributes to understanding the crisis in which we find ourselves as a moment of both existential danger and an opportunity This book is in two parts The first part charts capitalism s historical progression to globalism through the lens of the act of taking Taking has risen to institutional prominence as a core concept in the legal lexicon of foreign investment protection to denote deprivation of private property Post Colonial Globalisation advances a broader notion of taking as a tool of social criticism From enclosures to colonial settlement to an empire of unequal exchanges to contemporary land grabs private property now so vigorously protected against taking was itself born out of taking The second part focuses on the ecological dimension of neoliberal globalisation and its hallmarks of unlimited growth and excessive extraction It has negatively impacted the climate the earth and its human and non human inhabitants to the point of putting their continued existence at risk Central to this is the deification of property Our understanding of proprietary relations and the rights they confer must be revisited if our interface with the planet is to be reconfigured The emerging doctrine of rights of nature offers one route which may lead us in this direction The two parts complement each other One looks at taking by members of the human species from each other The other looks at taking by the human species from nature This book is aimed at anyone who wishes to gain insight into the current crisis including students academics NGOs and policymakers

An Elusive Common Karen E. Rignall,2021-07-15 An Elusive Common details the fraught dynamics of rural life in the arid periphery of southeastern Morocco Karen Rignall considers whether agrarian livelihoods can survive in the context of globalized capitalism and proposes a new way of thinking about agrarian practice politics and land in North Africa and the Middle East Her book questions many of the assumptions underlying movements for land and food sovereignty theories of the commons and environmental governance Global market forces government disinvestment political marginalization and climate change are putting unprecedented pressures on contemporary rural life At the same time rural peoples are defying their exclusion by forging new economic and political possibilities In southern Morocco the vibrancy of rural life was sustained by creative and often contested efforts to sustain communal governance especially of land as a basis for agrarian livelihoods and a changing wage labor economy An Elusive Common follows these diverse strategies ethnographically to show how land became a site for conflicts over community political authority and social hierarchy Rignall makes the provocative argument that land enclosures can be an essential part of communal governance and the fight for autonomy against intrusive state power and historical inequalities

States and Citizens Jon Shefner,2015-11-16 This volume examines how states and citizens have been able to address globalization in different ways across the Global North and South Authors examine the state as it forms policies in agro production contends with critical constituencies and rebuilds capacity to act in the popular interest after forty years of neoliberal assault

Countering Dispossession, Reclaiming Land David E. Gilbert,2024-03-05 Countering Dispossession Reclaiming Land tells the story of a remarkable movement of Indonesian workers who starting in the early 1990s occupied the agribusiness plantation where they worked and reclaimed collective control of the land In the years since movement members have cultivated diverse agricultural forests undoing the damage done over nearly a century of agribusiness abuse Author David E Gilbert illustrates how these workers turned activists moved beyond industrial agriculture s exploitation of laborers and the environment to create a more emancipatory and ecologically attuned way of living with the land At a time when capitalism has remade landscapes and reordered society the Cusiavera reclaiming movement serves as an inspiring example of what global struggles for social and environmental justice can achieve

Forest Conservation and Sustainability in Indonesia Bernice Maxton-Lee,2020-03-20 Despite carefully constructed conservation interventions deforestation in Indonesia is not being stopped This book identifies why large scale international forest conservation has failed to reduce deforestation in Indonesia and considers why key stakeholders have not responded as expected to these conservation interventions The book maps the history of deforestation in Indonesia in the context of global political economy exploring the relationship between international trade the interests and ideology behind global sustainability programmes and the failures of forest conservation in Indonesia Global economic and political ideologies are shown to have profoundly shaped deforestation The author argues that the same forces continue to prevent positive outcomes Case study chapters analyse three major international programmes Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation REDD the Norway Indonesia bilateral partnership and the Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil RSPO in Indonesia The findings provide insight into the failures of global climate change policy and suggest how the book s theoretical model can be used to analyse other complex environmental problems The book is a useful reference for students of environmental science and policy political theory international relations development and economics It will also be of interest to forestry professionals and practitioners working in NGOs

Converging Social Justice Issues and Movements Tsegaye Moreda, Saturnino M. Borras Jr., Alberto Alonso-Fradejas, Zoe W. Brent, 2020-05-21 Converging Social Justice Issues and Movements argues that multiple contemporary converging crises have significantly altered the context for and object of political contestations around agrarian climate environmental and food justice issues This shift affects alliances collaboration and conflict among and between state and social forces as well as within and between social movements The actual implications and mechanisms by which these changes are happening are to a large extent empirical questions that need careful investigation The majority of the discussions in this volume are dedicated to the issue of responses to the crises both by capitalist forces and those adversely affected by the crises and the implications of these for academic research and political activist work Interdisciplinary in nature Converging Social Justice Issues and Movements will be of great use to scholars of agrarian politics as well as climate and environmental justice studies The chapters were originally published as a special issue in Third World Quarterly
