Language And Representation In Information Retrieval:

Language and Representation in Information Retrieval David C. Blair, 1990 Information or Document Retrieval is the subject of this book It is not an introductory book although it is self contained in the sense that it is not necessary to have a background in the theory or practice of Information Retrieval in order to understand its arguments The book presents as clearly as possible one particular perspective on Information Retrieval and attempts to say that certain aspects of the theory or practice of the management of documents are more important than others The majority of Information Retrieval research has been aimed at the more experimentally tractable small scale systems and although much of that work has added greatly to our understanding of Information Retrieval it is becoming increasingly apparent that retrieval systems with large data bases of documents are a fundamentally different genre of systems than small scale systems If this is so which is the thesis of this book then we must now study large information retrieval systems with the same rigor and intensity that we once studied small scale systems Hegel observed that the quantitative growth of any system caused qualitative changes to take place in its structure and processes

Cross-Language Information Retrieval Jian-Yun Nie, 2022-05-31 Search for information is no longer exclusively limited within the native language of the user but is more and more extended to other languages This gives rise to the problem of cross language information retrieval CLIR whose goal is to find relevant information written in a different language to a query In addition to the problems of monolingual information retrieval IR translation is the key problem in CLIR one should translate either the query or the documents from a language to another However this translation problem is not identical to full text machine translation MT the goal is not to produce a human readable translation but a translation suitable for finding relevant documents Specific translation methods are thus required The goal of this book is to provide a comprehensive description of the specific problems arising in CLIR the solutions proposed in this area as well as the remaining problems The book starts with a general description of the monolingual IR and CLIR problems Different classes of approaches to translation are then presented approaches using an MT system dictionary based translation and approaches based on parallel and comparable corpora In addition the typical retrieval effectiveness using different approaches is compared It will be shown that translation approaches specifically designed for CLIR can rival and outperform high quality MT systems Finally the book offers a look into the future that draws a strong parallel between query expansion in monolingual IR and query translation in CLIR suggesting that many approaches developed in monolingual IR can be adapted to CLIR The book can be used as an introduction to CLIR Advanced readers can also find more technical details and discussions about the remaining research challenges in the future It is suitable to new researchers who intend to carry out research on CLIR Table of Contents Preface Introduction Using Manually Constructed Translation Systems and Resources for CLIR Translation Based on Parallel and Comparable Corpora Other Methods to Improve CLIR A Look into the Future Toward a Unified View of Monolingual IR and CLIR References Author Biography

These proceedings contain the refereed full technical papers presented at the 26th Annual European Conference on Information Retrieval ECIR 2004 ECIR is the annual conference of the British Computer Society's specialist group in Information Retrieval This year the conference was held at the School of Computing and Technology at the University of Sunderland ECIR began life as the annual Colloquium on Information Retrieval Research The colloquium was held in the UK each year until 1998 when the event was held in Grenoble France Since then the conference venue has alternated between the United Kingdom and Continental Europe and the event was renamed the European Conference on Information Retrieval In recent years ECIR has continued to grow and has become the major European forum for the discussion of research in the field of Information Retrieval To mark this metamorphosis from a small informal colloquium to a major event in the IR research calendar the BCS IRSG decided to rename the event to the European Conference on Information Retrieval ECIR 2004 received 88 full paper submissions from across Europe and further afield including North America China and Australia a testament to the growing popularity and reputation of the conference Out of the 88 submitted papers 28 were accepted for presentation All papers were reviewed by at least three reviewers Among the accepted papers 11 have a student as the primary author illustrating that the traditional student focus of the original colloquium is alive today Information Retrieval Technology Hwee Tou Ng, Mun-Kew Leong, Min-Yen Kan, Donghong Ji, 2006-10-18 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Third Asia Information Retrieval Symposium AIRS 2006 The book presents 34 revised full papers and 24 revised poster papers All current issues in information retrieval are addressed applications systems technologies and theoretical aspects of information retrieval in text audio image video and multi media data The papers are organized in topical sections on text retrieval search and extraction text classification and indexing and more Emergent Web Intelligence: Advanced Information Retrieval Richard Chbeir, Youakim Badr, Ajith Abraham, Aboul-Ella Hassanien, 2010-03-10 This volume reviews cutting edge technologies and insights related to XML based and multimedia information access and data retrieval And by applying new techniques to real world scenarios it details how organizations can gain competitive advantages Information Retrieval and Hypertext Maristella Agosti, Alan Smeaton, 2012-12-06 Information Retrieval IR has concentrated on the development of information management systems to support user retrieval from large collections of homogeneous textual material A variety of approaches have been tried and tested with varying degrees of success over many decades of research Hypertext HT systems on the other hand provide a retrieval paradigm based on browsing through a structured information space following pre defined connections between information fragments until an information need is satisfied or appears to be Information Retrieval and Hypertext addresses the confluence of the areas of IR and HT and explores the work done to date in applying techniques from one area to the other leading to the development of hypertext information retrieval HIR systems An important aspect of the work in IR HT and in any user centred information system is the emergence of multimedia information and such multimedia information is treated as an integral information type in this text The contributed chapters cover the development of integrated hypertext information retrieval models and the application of IR and HT techniques in hypertext construction and the approaches that can be taken in searching HIR systems These chapters are complemented by two overview chapters covering respectively information retrieval and hypertext research and developments Information Retrieval and Hypertext is important as it is the first text to directly address the combined searching browsing paradigm of information discovery which is becoming so important in modern computing environments It will be of interest to researchers and professionals working in a range of areas related to information discovery Advances in Information Retrieval Matthias Hagen, Suzan Verberne, Craig Macdonald, Christin Seifert, Krisztian Balog, Kjetil Nørkvåg, Vinay Setty, 2022-04-05 This two volume set LNCS 13185 and 13186 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 44th European Conference on IR Research ECIR 2022 held in April 2022 due to the COVID 19 pandemic The 35 full papers presented together with 11 reproducibility papers 13 CLEF lab descriptions papers 12 doctoral consortium papers 5 workshop abstracts and 4 tutorials abstracts were carefully reviewed and selected from 395 submissions Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. future The rapid growth of information and communication technology as well as progress in educational psychological and allied research fields have many scholars questioning aspects of traditional school concepts For example should the classroom be flipped so that students receive instruction online at home and do homework in school At the same time inclusive education has changed the traditional landscape of special education and thus of deaf education in many if not all countries and yet deaf children continued to lag significantly behind hearing peers in academic achievement As a consequence of technological innovations e g digital hearing aids and early bilateral cochlear implants the needs of many deaf learners have changed considerably Parents and professionals however are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive experiential and social emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes Understanding such differences and determining ways in which to accommodate them through global cooperation must become a top priority in educating deaf learners Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars Educating Deaf Learners takes a broader view of learning and academic achievement than any previous work considering the whole child In adopting this broad perspective the authors capture the complexities and commonalities in the social emotional cognitive and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part It is only through such a holistic consideration that we can understand their academic potential

Multilingual Information Retrieval Carol Peters, Martin Braschler, Paul Clough, 2012-01-05 We are living in a multilingual world and the diversity in languages which are used to interact with information access systems has generated a wide variety of challenges to be addressed by computer and information scientists The growing amount of non English information accessible globally and the increased worldwide exposure of enterprises also necessitates the adaptation of Information Retrieval IR methods to new multilingual settings Peters Braschler and Clough present a comprehensive description of the technologies involved in designing and developing systems for Multilingual Information Retrieval MLIR They provide readers with broad coverage of the various issues involved in creating systems to make accessible digitally stored materials regardless of the language s they are written in Details on Cross Language Information Retrieval CLIR are also covered that help readers to understand how to develop retrieval systems that cross language boundaries Their work is divided into six chapters and accompanies the reader step by step through the various stages involved in building using and evaluating MLIR systems The book concludes with some examples of recent applications that utilise MLIR technologies Some of the techniques described have recently started to appear in commercial search systems while others have the potential to be part of future incarnations The book is intended for graduate students scholars and practitioners with a basic understanding of classical text retrieval methods It offers guidelines and information on all aspects that need to be taken into consideration when building MLIR systems while avoiding too many hands on details that could rapidly become obsolete Thus it bridges the gap between the material covered by most of the classical IR textbooks and the novel requirements related to the acquisition and dissemination of information in whatever language it is stored
