sources in Latin America relating to pan Atlantic histories and the continuing analysis of oral histories The volume is dedicated to Paulo Fernando de Moraes Farias whose work inspired the intellectual reorientations discussed in its chapters and stands as the clearest formulation of the book's central focus on the relationship between political conjunctures and the production of sources Contributors are Benjamin Acloque Karin Barber Seydou Camara Mamadou Diawara Paulo Fernando de Moraes Farias François Xavier Fauvelle Nikolas Gestrinch Toby Green Bruce Hall Jan Jansen Shamil Jeppie Daouda Keita Murray Last Robin Law Camille Lefebvre Paul Lovejoy Ghislaine Lydon Carlos Magnavita Sonja Magnavita Kevin MacDonald Thomas McCaskie Ann McDougall Daniela Moreau Mauro Nobili Insa Nolte Abel Wedoud Ould Cheikh Benedetta Rossi Charles Stewart

Landscape Ecology And Geographical Information Systems R Haines-Young, David R. Green, S. H. Cousins, 2003-09-02 The landscape we see and live in is an important part of our everyday lives be they urban or rural Environmental concern has grown in recent years as a result of public awareness of the detrimental impact industry transport and tourism can have on the ecosystem This book examines the role of the new technologies of geographical information systems

Landscape Resilience Catrin Schmidt, 2021-10-25 This book explains what makes landscapes resilient Why are some landscapes able to recover quickly from disruptive events or crises while others are completely thrown off balance for the foreseeable future The author sets out in search of the influencing factors and conditional structures of landscape resilience and not only evaluates the current state of the art but also explores landscapes around the globe that could not be more contrasting from arid agricultural landscapes to boreal forest landscapes from atolls to saline landscapes from terraced landscapes to cities Just as diverse as the landscape types are the factors considered that can put landscapes under stress However diverse the case studies are in detail their fascinating mosaic shows at the same time that there are overarching principles that can be used to increase the resilience of landscapes in a targeted way so that landscapes emerge from crises strengthened rather than weakened This book is a translation of the original German 1st edition Landschaftliche Resilienz by Catrin Schmidt published by Springer Verlag GmbH Germany part of Springer Nature in 2020 The translation was done with the help of artificial intelligence machine translation by the service DeepL.com A subsequent human revision was done primarily in terms of content so that the book will read stylistically differently from a conventional translation Springer Nature works continuously to further the development of tools for the production of books and on the related technologies to support the authors

Landscape Archaeology Rebecca Yamin, Karen Bescherer Metheny, 1996 As the editors note This volume includes many searching looks at the landscape not just to understand ourselves but to understand the context for other peoples lives in other times to unravel the landscapes they created and explain the meanings embedded in them

Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell, Ingrid Herlin, Richard Stiles, 2011-02-20 What have cultural anthropologists historical geographers landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project carried out under the auspices of ECLAS the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse Space, Place and Religious Landscapes Darrelyn Gunzburg, Bernadette Brady, 2020-10-01

Exploring sacred mountains around the world this book examines whether bonding and reverence to a mountain is intrinsic to the mountain constructed by people or a mutual encounter Chapters explore mountains in England Scotland Wales Italy Ireland the Himalaya Japan Greece USA Asia and South America and embrace the union of sky landscape and people to examine the religious dynamics between human and non human entities This book takes as its starting point the fact that mountains physically mediate between land and sky and act as metaphors for bridges from one realm to another recognising that mountains are relational and that landscapes form personal and group cosmologies The book fuses ideas of space place and material religion with cultural environmentalism and takes an interconnected approach to material religio landscapes In this way it fills the gap between lived religious traditions personal reflection phenomenology historical context environmental philosophy myths and performativity In defining material religion as active engagement with mountain forming and humanshaping landscapes the research and ideas presented here provide theories that are widely applicable to other forms of material religion Landscape and History Since 1500 Ian D. Whyte, 2002 Landscape and History explores a complex relationship over the past five centuries The book is international and interdisciplinary in scope drawing on material from social economic and cultural history as well as from geography archaeology cultural geography planning and landscape history In recent years as the author points out there has been increasing interest in and concern for many aspects of landscape within British European and wider contexts This has included the study of the history development and changes in our perception of landscape as well as research into the links between past landscapes and political ideologies economic and social structures cartography art and literature There is also considerable concern at present with the need to evaluate and classify historic landscapes and to develop policies for their conservation and management in relation to their scenic heritage and recreational value This is manifest not only in the designation of particularly valued areas with enhanced protection from planning developments such as national parks and world heritage sites but in the countryside more generally Further Ian D Whyte argues changes in European Union policies relating to agriculture with a greater concern for the protection and sustainable management of rural landscapes are likely to be of major importance in relation to the themes of continuity and change in the landscapes of Britain and Europe

Landscape in the Longue Durée Christopher Tilley, 2017-10-06 Pebbles are usually found only on the beach in the liminal space between land and sea But what happens when pebbles extend inland and create a ridge brushing against the sky Landscape in the Longue Durée is a 4 000 year history of pebbles It is based on the results of a four year archaeological research project of the east Devon Pebblebed heathlands a fascinating and geologically unique landscape in the UK whose bedrock is composed entirely of water rounded pebbles Christopher Tilley uses this landscape to argue that pebbles are like no other kind of stone they occupy an especial place both in the prehistoric past and in our contemporary culture It is for this reason that we must re think continuity and change in a radically new way by considering embodied relations between people and things over the long term Dividing the book into two parts Tilley first explores the prehistoric landscape from the Mesolithic to the end of the Iron Age and follows with an analysis of the same landscape from the eighteenth into the twenty first century The major findings of the four year study are revealed through this chronological journey from archaeological discoveries such as the excavation of three early Bronze Age cairns to the documentation of all 829 surviving pebble structures and beyond to the impact of the landscape on local economies and its importance today as a military training camp The results of the study will inform many disciplines including archaeology cultural and art history anthropology conservation and landscape studies
