live in a world that constantly tells us we're not good enough that we'll never make it and no matter how hard we try we simply won't fit in. With the noise, distractions and chaos around us, it's easy to feel alone. It's easy to feel like we don't belong. Everyone else seems to be doing fine, so there must be something wrong with me, we tell ourselves. But what is the truth? Do we belong? Is there a way to feel a sense of place and belonging, no matter the circumstance? In You Belong, Leialoha presents practical strategies and shares truthful affirmations to help you discover your place and sense of belonging in your color, culture and as a Christian. In You Belong, learn how to embrace and become who God needs you to be. Welcome every unique season and circumstance with optimism and gratitude. Use culture, heritage and traditions to uplift and inspire your life. Rediscover your unique contribution. Dedicate yourself to become a more devoted follower of Jesus Christ. Discover your sense of place. And more. No matter the circumstances, you can discover your story and unique sense of place. Because when you find your sense of place, you find where you belong. You belong. You always did.

A Life in Conversation Michael A. Cowan, 2015-04-30 In a long and creative academic career, Professor Bernard J. Lee has published and taught on the cutting edge of Catholic theology. He has been a beloved teacher, generous mentor and cherished colleague during his academic tenures at Maryville University, St. John's University, Collegeville, Loyola University New Orleans and St. Mary's University San Antonio. In A Life in Conversation, his colleagues and former students offer a collection of essays that honor him on the occasion of his eightieth birthday. The essays focus on many aspects of Lee's pioneering work, which includes explorations in process theology, ecclesiology, the Jewish world of Jesus, sacramentology, religious life, small Christian communities and practical theology. Gathered here under the metaphorical umbrella of conversation, a commitment of primary and life-long importance to Professor Lee, these essays offer glimpses of the stature of a religious thinker whose life in conversation continues to affect deeply his students and colleagues alike. The authors contributing to this volume are Dianne Bergant, C. S. A., Michael A. Cowan, Nancy Dallavalle, William V. D'Antonio, Peter Eichten, Thomas F. Giardino, S. M., Andrew Simon, Sleeman, O. S. B., Terry A. Veling and Evelyn and James Whitehead. A Life in Conversation concludes with an essay by Professor Lee.

The Come Back Effect Jason Young, Jonathan Malm, 2018-07-31 The key to growth as a church youth ministry or a business is getting first-time guests to come back. And as any good manager of a hotel, a store, a restaurant or an attraction knows, the key to getting guests to come back is not actually the rooms or the product or the food itself; it's how guests feel when they're there. It's about hospitality. No matter how much effort and time we spend on excellence, stirring worship, time-inspiring sermons, a good coffee blend in the foyer, what our guests really want when they come to our churches is to feel welcome, comfortable and understood. Written by a church consultant and a hospitality expert, The Come Back Effect shows church ministry and even business leaders the secret to helping a first-time guest return again and again. Through an engaging story-driven approach, they explain how service and hospitality are two different things, show how Jesus practiced hospitality and invite leaders to develop and implement changes that lead to repeat visits and eventually to sustained growth.

The

Generative Church Cory Seibel, 2019-10-10 Virtually all churches aim to invest meaningfully in the faith development of the younger generations who have been entrusted into their care Some churches have a longstanding track record of faithfulness in living out this commitment Some lose sight of this priority over time and allow their intentionality to fade This book makes a distinctive contribution to our understanding of children s youth and young adult ministries by appropriating Erik Erikson s concept of generativity the interest in establishing and guiding the next generation as a way of exploring congregational life Eleven accomplished authors representing five different countries provide diverse theological and cultural perspectives on key aspects of what it means for churches to invest intentionally in the faith development of the members of emerging generations Their chapters challenge us to think about the intergenerational dynamics of our churches the crucial partnership between church and parents and what it means to involve young people meaningfully in the life of the church The intriguing topics explored by this group of authors and the diverse contexts from which they write promise to broaden and enrich our thinking about caring for children youth and young adults as a vital responsibility shared by the entire congregation

Warren,John S. Knox,2020-02-14 Often a disconnect exists between the way pastors children's ministry volunteers and churches describe the health and impact of children's ministry volunteers and the overall functioning of an ongoing children's ministry The volunteer dysfunction that is evident in many churches goes beyond the building scenario or the current strategy that leadership is pursuing If one asks the pastor of just about any local church how the children's ministry is going most pastors will respond positively. However, if speaking with a children's ministry volunteer, one is likely to hear, "I am burned out, but I feel obligated to serve here because we have such a shortage of volunteers, and I do love these kids." Too often, there is no program in place to monitor the health of the ministry. Official training is lacking, church vision is blurred, and many children's ministry volunteers feel like they are nothing more than large group unpaid babysitters. This book analyzes these problems and provides pragmatic, systematic steps to a healthier, more robust children's ministry.
