Late Mamluk Patronage Qansuh Al Ghuris Waqfs And His Foundations In Cairo:

Late Mamluk Patronage Khaled A. Alhamzah, Khālid Ḥamzah, 2009 This book attempts to look at the structure and functions of the constituent elements of the Ghuriyya complex through the medium of contemporary sources in particular its waqfiyya and in doing so the motives and attitudes of the patron his goals and his ambitions are defined In addition the study seeks to place the monuments in broader context and examine them within the more extended social economic political and cultural environment of al Ghuri s reign This book will be of considerable interest to academics and students working on the history of art and architecture history culture and urbanism of the Middle East Its subject is the expressive intent of Mamluk architecture using new cultural and iconographical approaches The book offers the first complete English translation of the main parts of Islamic Arabic waqf The Ghuriyya complex is of interest and significance because of its relatively good conservation moreover it constitutes one of the largest and finest late Mamluk royal foundations The Waqfiyya of Ghuriyya foundations contains not only descriptions of specific monuments but also stipulations defining in the most precise detail types of activities taking place within the confines of these monuments The book shows how important the waqf documents are they are a valuable source for understanding Mamluk architecture This work illustrated by 25 fine quality images introduces new primary sources and provides new interpretations

Late Mamluk Patronage Khaled Ahmad al-Hamzeh, 1995 The traditional scholarship on Mamluk architecture has concentrated most heavily in the matter of description of specific monuments the approach of Briggs and Creswell amongst others The strength of this approach is in its archaeological documentation of the specifics of each particular building so examined Its shortcomings of course have to do with the instability of this approach to provide a broader context for the study of architecture to give insight into the motives of the patron or at least in any specific way into the specifics of the function of a monument It is precisely these sorts of details and data which waqfiyya can provide Sultan Qansuh al Ghuri 1501-1516 the last of the Mamluk rulers was a great patron of building He erected several foundations mostly in Cairo Of these the most important was the Ghuriyya complex located in Cairo on al Qasaba al Uzma the main street near the Azhar Mosque The complex accommodates a variety of functions and includes a madrasa a mausoleum a khanqah a kuttab and a sabil Al Ghuri s life and character are discussed in relation to his activities as a patron of the arts and architecture Al Ghuri s waqfiyya is studied in detail in five sections following in broad outline the organization of the waqfiyya itself The first deals with the introduction including a statement of the purpose of the waqf an enumeration of the sultan s titles the declaration of the act of waqf and explanation of its reasons Part two consists of the descriptions of the buildings forming the Ghuriyya complex as given in the waqfiyya In part three a listing of the endowments lands buildings and other properties bequeathed to the waqf is given Part four is a discussion of the stipulations having to do with expenditures the appointments of officials and employees and their responsibilities And finally the fifth section deals with the regulations and conditions established by the patron to secure the waqf and insure its continuity The introduction to al Ghuri's waqfiyya deals with the matter of motives which were essentially grounded in personal piety and hope for divine reward However it is made clear from other passages in the waqfiyya that al Ghuri had purposes of family solidarity and political security in mind as well Waqfiyyas are useful Late Mamluk Patronage Khaled Ahmad Alhamzeh, 1993 The traditional scholarship on Mamluk architecture has concentrated most heavily in the matter of description of specific monuments the approach of Briggs and Creswell amongst others The strength of this approach is in its archaeological documentation of the specifics of each particular building so examined Its shortcomings of course have to do with the instability of this approach to provide a broader context for the study of architecture to give insight into the motives of the patron or at least in any specific way into the specifics of the function of a monument It is precisely these sorts of details and data which waqfiyya can provide Sultan Qansuh al Ghuri 1501-1516 the last of the Mamluk rulers was a great patron of building He erected several foundations mostly in Cairo Of these the most important was the Ghuriyya complex located in Cairo on al Qasaba al Uzma the main street near the Azhar Mosque The complex accommodates a variety of functions and includes a madrasa a mausoleum a khanqah a kuttab and a sabil Al Ghuri's life and character are discussed in relation to his activities as a patron of the arts and architecture Al Ghuri's waqfiyya is studied in detail in five sections following in broad outline the organization of the waqfiyya itself The first deals with the introduction including a statement of the purpose of the waqf an enumeration of the sultan's titles the declaration of the act of waqf and explanation of its reasons Part two consists of the descriptions of the buildings forming the Ghuriyya complex as given in the waqfiyya In part three a listing of the endowments lands buildings and other properties bequeathed to the waqf is given Part four is a discussion of the stipulations having to do with expenditures the appointments of officials and employees and their responsibilities And finally the fifth section deals with the regulations and conditions established by the patron to secure the waqf and insure its continuity The introduction to al Ghuri's waqfiyya deals with the matter of motives which were essentially grounded in personal piety and hope for divine reward However it is made clear from other passages in the waqfiyya that al Ghuri had purposes of family solidarity and political security in mind as well Waqfiyyas are useful Majd al-Din al-Firuzabadi (1329-1415) Vivian Strotmann, 2015-10-14 In Majd al-Din al-Firuzabadi 1329-1415 A Polymath on the Eve of the Early Modern Period Vivian Strotmann provides a detailed reconstruction of the famous lexicographer's and travelling scholar's life and works The author of the Qamus al mu is widely known for his Arabic lexicon which overshadows the astounding breadth of his writing This polymathic aspect is elucidated through detailed reconstruction of al-Firuzabadi's corpus including examination of works that were considered lost and misapprehensions concerning ascriptions of authorship Through minute analysis of biographical sources the book shows al-Firuzabadi's development as a scholar his central role in the defence of Ibn al-Arab's teachings and thereby his importance as a powerful intellectual in Timurid times and for developments during the Early Modern Period Dynamism in the Urban Society of Damascus Toru Miura, 2015-11-16 This book presents a new perspective on Islamic urban society a dynamism of social networking and justice which caused both rapid development and sudden decay in the li iyya quarter Founded in the northern suburbs of Damascus by Hanbali ulama who migrated from Palestine to Syria in the mid 12th century the quarter developed into a city through waqf endowments It has attracted the attention of historians and travelers for its unique location popular movements and religious features Through the study of local chronicles topographies and archival sources and through modern field research Toru Miura explores the history of the li iyya quarter from its foundation to the early 20th century comparing it to European Chinese and Japanese cities

Medieval Damascus Hirschler Konrad Hirschler, 2016-02-19 The written text was a pervasive feature of cultural practices in the medieval Middle East At the heart of book circulation stood libraries that experienced a rapid expansion from the twelfth century onwards While the existence of these libraries is well known our knowledge of their content and structure has been very limited as hardly any medieval Arabic catalogues have been preserved This book discusses the largest and earliest medieval library of the Middle East for which we have documentation the Ashrafiya library in the very centre of Damascus and edits its catalogue This catalogue shows that even book collections attached to Sunni religious institutions could hold rather unexpected titles such as stories from the 1001 Nights manuals for traders medical handbooks Shiite prayers love poetry and texts extolling wine consumption At the same time this library catalogue decisively expands our knowledge of how the books were spatially organised on the bookshelves of such a large medieval library With over 2 000 entries this catalogue is essential reading for anybody interested in the cultural and intellectual history of Arabic societies Setting the Ashrafiya catalogue into a comparative perspective with contemporaneous libraries on the British Isles this book opens new perspectives for the study of medieval libraries

The Oxford Handbook of Medieval Christianity John H. Arnold, 2014-08-21 The Oxford Handbook of Medieval Christianity takes as its subject the beliefs practices and institutions of the Christian Church between 400 and 1500AD It addresses topics ranging from early medieval monasticism to late medieval mysticism from the material wealth of the Church to the spiritual exercises through which certain believers might attempt to improve their souls Each chapter tells a story but seeks also to ask how and why Christianity took particular forms at particular moments in history paying attention to both the spiritual and otherworldly aspects of religion and the material and political contexts in which they were often embedded This Handbook is a landmark academic collection that presents cutting edge interpretive perspectives on medieval religion for a wide academic audience drawing together thirty key scholars in the field from the United States the UK and Europe Notably the Handbook is arranged thematically and focusses on an analytical rather than narrative approach seeking to demonstrate the variety change and complexity of religion throughout this long period and the numerous different ways in which modern scholarship can approach it While providing a very wide ranging view of the subject it also offers an important agenda for further study in the field

The Oxford Handbook of Light in Archaeology Costas Papadopoulos, Holley Moyes, 2021-12-09 Light has a fundamental role to play in our perception of the world Natural or artificial lightscape orchestrate uses and experiences of space and in turn influence how people construct and negotiate their identities form social relationships and attribute meaning to im material practices Archaeological practice seeks to analyse the material culture of past societies by examining the interaction between people things and spaces As light is a crucial factor that mediates these relationships understanding its principles and addressing illumination s impact on sensory experience and perception should be a fundamental pursuit in archaeology However in archaeological reasoning studies of lightscape have remained largely neglected and understudied This volume provides a comprehensive and accessible consideration of light in archaeology and beyond by including dedicated and fully illustrated chapters covering diverse aspects of illumination in different spatial and temporal contexts from prehistory to the present Written by leading international scholars it interrogates the qualities and affordances of light in different contexts and im material environments explores its manipulation and problematises its elusive properties The result is a synthesis of invaluable insights into sensory experience and perception demonstrating illumination s vital impact on social cultural and artistic contexts
