Three Political Voices from the Age of Justinian Agapetus (diacono.),2009-01-01 This one volume translation with commentary and introduction brings together three important works All three texts cast great if generally neglected light on politics and ideology in early Byzantium Agapetus wrote c 527 30CE from a position sympathetic to Justinian when he had still to consolidate his authority He sets out what an emperor must do to acquire legitimacy in terms of government s being the imitation of God Read in context his work is much more than a list of pious commonplaces The Dialogue written anonymously towards the end the same reign comprises fragments from Books 4 5 of a philosophically sophisticated lost longer work setting out requirements for the ideal polity based on a similar concept of imperial rule with extensive comment on matters of current political salience but from an implicitly hostile standpoint Not only does the text reflect the nature of Neoplatonic political philosophy but it also penetrates with its ideas deep into the inner realities of the time into the political problems of Constantinople during the first half of the sixth century The third text was written by Paul the Silentiary to mark the rededication of the basilica Hagia Sophia built thirty years earlier under the orders of Emperor Justinian I Together the translations provide an important insight into the early Byzantine period Papal Jurisprudence, 385-1234 D. L.

d'Avray,2022-03-17 Why did bishops turn to the papacy for advice in late Antiquity And what does the reception of these decretals reveal about the legal and religious culture of the mid thirteenth century This interpretative volume seeks to explain the first decretal age of late antiquity placing the increased demand for papal jurisprudence long before it exerted its influence through religious fear within its social broad context D L d Avray then traces the reception of this jurisprudence through to the mid thirteenth century and the post Gratian decretal age Along the way he explores the role of Charlemagne and Pseudo Isidore which included many genuine early decretals alongside forged ones Similarities between the Latin world c 400 and c 1200 thus help explain parallels between the two decretal ages This book also analyses decretals from both ages in chapters on pagan marriages clerics in minor orders and episcopal elections For both ages the relation between canon law and other religious genres is elucidated demonstrating many fascinating parallels and connections

Facing the Sea of Sand Barry Cunliffe, 2023-04-15 Northern Africa is dominated by the Sahara Desert stretching across the continent from the Atlantic Ocean to the Red Sea This book is about the people who lived around the edges of the Desert and the different ways in which they responded to its challenges establishing networks of communication across its expanse But the Sahara has not always been a desert From about 9000 BC the region began to enjoy a warm humid period allowing vegetation to flourish and wild animals to move in Humans soon followed practising pastoral economies but with the onset of harsher conditions once more around 3000 BC the desert reclaimed its own Since then fluctuations in climate have continued to affect the lives of people living around the desert fringes The communities occupying the North African Coast and in the Nile Valley have come under the influence of the states dominating the Near East and the Mediterranean but those living in the Sahel to the south of the desert have developed their own distinctive cultures The book tells the story of the growing links between the two worlds showing that Africa played a crucial part in the development of the Old World before it was drawn into the story of the New World

The Dynamics of Ancient Empires Ian Morris, Walter Scheidel, 2009 The Dynamics of Ancient Empires is designed to address the deficit in the comparative study of ancient empires in the western Old World and to encourage

The Archaeology of Medieval Islamic Frontiers A. Asa Eger, 2019-05-15 The Archaeology of Medieval Islamic Frontiers demonstrates that different areas of the Islamic polity previously understood as minor frontiers were in fact of substantial importance to state formation Contributors explore different conceptualizations of border the importance of which previously went unrecognized examining frontiers in regions including the Magreb the Mediterranean Egypt Nubia and the Caucasus through a combination of archaeological and documentary evidence Chapters highlight the significance of these respective regions to the emergence of new sociopolitical cultural and economic practices within the Islamic world These studies successfully overcome the dichotomy of civilization s center and peripheries in academic discourse by presenting the actual dynamics of identity formation and the definition both spatial and cultural of boundaries The Archaeology of Medieval Islamic Frontiers is a rare combination of a new reading of written evidence with results from archaeological studies that will modify established opinions on the character of the Islamic frontiers and stimulate similar studies for other regions The book will be relevant to medieval Islamic studies as well as to research in the medieval world in general Contributors Karim Alizadeh Jana Eger Kathryn J Franklin Renata Holod Tarek Kahlaoui Anthony J Lauricella Ian Randall Giovanni R Ruffini Tasha Vorderstrasse
