Language In Time And Space Trends In Linguistics Studies And Monographs Tilsm:

Language in Time and Space Brigitte L.M. Bauer, Georges-Jean Pinault, 2011-03-01 The honoree of this Festschrift has for many years now marked modern trends in diachronic and synchronic linguistics by his own publications and by stimulating those of numerous others This collection of articles presents data oriented studies that integrate modern and traditional approaches in the field thus reflecting the honoree's contribution to contemporary linguistics The articles relate to comparative data from early Indo European languages and a variety of other languages and discuss the theoretical implications of phenomena such as linguistic universals reconstruction and language classification

Languages in Space and Time: Models and Methods from Complex Systems Theory Marco Patriarca, Els Heinsalu, Jean Leó Leonard, 2020-10-29 Demonstrates how complexity theory and statistical mechanics help define the language groups and model the language dynamics

Variation in Time and Space Anna Čermáková, Markéta Malá, 2020-12-07 Variation in Time and Space Observing the World through Corpora is a collection of articles that address the theme of linguistic variation in English in its broadest sense Current research in English language presented in the book explores a fascinating number of topics whose unifying element is the corpus linguistic methodology Part I of this volume Meaning in Time and Space introduces the two dimensions of variation time and space relating them to the negotiation of meaning in discourse and questions of intertextuality Part II Variation in Time approaches the English language from a diachronic point of view the time periods covered vary considerably ranging from 16th century up to present day so do the genres explored Part III Variation in Space focuses on global varieties of English and includes a contrastive point of view The range of topics is again broad from specific lexico grammatical structures to the variation in academic English combining the regional and genre dimensions of variation This is a timely volume that shows the breadth and depth in current corpus based research of English

Free Variation in Grammar Kristin Kopf, Thilo Weber, 2023-10-15 Recent years have seen a growing interest in grammatical variation a core explanandum of grammatical theory The present volume explores questions that are fundamental to this line of research First the question of whether variation can always and completely be explained by intra or extra linguistic predictors or whether there is a certain amount of unpredictable or free grammatical variation Second the question of what implications the existence of free variation would hold for our theoretical models and the empirical study of grammar The volume provides the first dedicated book length treatment of this long standing topic Following an introductory chapter by the editors it contains ten case studies on potentially free variation in morphology and syntax drawn from Germanic Romance Uralic and Mayan

Computational approaches to semantic change Nina Tahmasebi, Lars Borin, Adam Jatowt, Yang Xu, Simon Hengchen, 2021-08-30 Semantic change how the meanings of words change over time has preoccupied scholars since well before modern linguistics emerged in the late 19th and early 20th century ushering in a new methodological turn in the study of language change Compared to changes in sound and grammar semantic change is the least understood Ever since the study of semantic change has progressed steadily accumulating a vast store of knowledge for over a century encompassing many languages and language families Historical linguists also early on realized the potential of computers as research tools with papers at the very first international conferences in computational linguistics in the 1960s Such computational studies still tended to be small scale method oriented and qualitative However recent years have witnessed a sea change in this regard Big data empirical quantitative investigations are now coming to the forefront enabled by enormous advances in storage capability and processing power Diachronic corpora have grown beyond imagination defying exploration by traditional manual qualitative methods and language technology has become increasingly data driven and semantics oriented These developments present a golden opportunity for the empirical study of semantic change over both long and short time spans A major challenge presently is to integrate the hard earned knowledge and expertise of traditional historical linguistics with cutting edge methodology explored primarily in computational linguistics The idea for the present volume came out of a concrete response to this challenge The 1st International Workshop on Computational Approaches to Historical Language Change LChange 19 at ACL 2019 brought together scholars from both fields This volume offers a survey of this exciting new direction in the study of semantic change a discussion of the many remaining challenges that we face in pursuing it and considerably updated and extended versions of a selection of the contributions to the LChange 19 workshop addressing both more theoretical problems e g discovery of laws of semantic change and practical applications such as information retrieval in longitudinal text archives

Clausal Complementation in South Slavic Björn Wiemer, Barbara Sonnenhauser, 2021-11-08 This volume assembles contributions addressing clausal complementation across the entire South Slavic territory The main focus is on particular aspects of complementation covering the contemporary standard languages as well as older stages and or non standard varieties and the impact of language contact primarily with non Slavic languages Presenting in depth studies they thus contribute to the overarching collective aim of arriving at a comprehensive picture of the patterns of clausal complementation on which South Slavic languages profile against a wider typological background but also diverge internally if we look closer at details in the contemporary stage and in diachronic development The volume divides into an introduction setting the stage for the single case studies an article developing a general template of complementation with a detailed overview of the components relevant for South Slavic studies addressing particular structural phenomena from different theoretical viewpoints and articles focusing on variation in space and or time

Language System and Its Change Jadranka Gvozdanovic, 1985

Time in Languages, Languages in Time Anna Čermáková, Thomas Egan, Hilde Hasselgård, Sylvi Rørvik, 2021-09-17 This volume comprises a collection of contrastive studies on language and time Languages represented include Czech French German Mandarin Norwegian and Swedish all of which are contrasted with English While the amount of published research on temporal relations in general is considerable less work has been carried out on comparing how we talk about time in various languages and how languages change over time Several methodological challenges are addressed and solutions proposed such as how to deal with poor quality historical data and how to identify n grams in typologically different languages for purposes of comparison The results of the various studies show how multilingual corpora can increase our knowledge of language specific features as well as linguistic typological and cultural differences and similarities across languages      Reconstructing Languages and Cultures Edgar C. Polomé, Werner Winter, 1992 TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by approaching language from an interdisciplinary perspective TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing      Language Change Ernst Håkon Jahr, 1999 No detailed description available for Language Change

Linguistic Change and Reconstruction Methodology Philip Baldi, 2011-06-01 No detailed description available for Linguistic Change and Reconstruction Methodology      Space in Languages Maya Hickmann, Stéphane Robert, 2006-05-16 Space is presently the focus of much research and debate across disciplines including linguistics anthropology psychology and philosophy One strong feature of this collection is to bring together theoretical and empirical contributions from these varied scientific traditions with the collective aim of addressing fundamental questions at the forefront of the current literature the nature of space in language the linguistic relativity of space the relation between spatial language and cognition Linguistic analyses highlight the multidimensional and heterogeneous nature of space while also showing the existence of a set of types parameters and principles organizing the considerable diversity of linguistic systems and accounting for mechanisms of diachronic change Findings concerning spatial perception and cognition suggest the existence of two distinct systems governing linguistic and non linguistic representations that only partially overlap in some pathologies but they also show the strong impact of language specific factors on the course of language acquisition and cognitive development      Space and Time in Language Mario Brdar, 2011 All human activity takes place in space and time in one way or another which is consequently reflected in our language We not only talk about space and time but also cannot but ground our linguistic activity in space and time Furthermore space and time are closely although asymmetrically related in our experience and we often think and talk about one in terms of the other Specifically time is conceived in terms of space far more frequently than vice versa The volume contains a selection of essays that are revised versions of papers presented at the 23rd annual conference of the Croatian Applied Linguistics Society CALS entitled Space and Time in Language Language in Space and Time which took place from 21 to 23 May 2009 in Osijek Croatia
