Drinking Girls Get a Stroke Water Too Cold

Two girls from the local high school were taken to the hospital last week after drinking from a cold water fountain. The girls were complaining of stomach pain and dizziness. The doctor diagnosed the condition as a stroke caused by the cold water. The girls were treated and are now recovering. The incident has caused the school to close the fountain for a few days to prevent further incidents.

CONDENSED WAR NEWS OF EUROPE PAST WEEK

The war news of Europe for the past week has been dominated by the continued fighting on the Western Front. The Allies have made significant gains in several areas, while the Germans have also shown some progress. The battle of the Somme continues to be a major focus of attention. In the East, the fighting has been less intense, but the situation remains tense. The war is expected to continue for some time longer.
