Lobsticks And Stone Cairns Lobsticks And Stone Cairns:

Lobsticks and Stone Cairns Richard Clarke Davis, 1996 Lobsticks and stone cairns are landmarks that mark paths and commemorate events The one hundred biographies in this book also offer themselves as paths to be taken Centuries of human endeavour hardship folly and suffering are collapsed into stories through which we can discover what the Arctic is and has been Profiled in this book are human landmarks dating from as far back as the sixteenth century to those still active in the North today Included are stories of adventurers military officers authors guides culture heroes police traders and even the occasional charlatan The biographies are of Inuit European American Indian and Canadian men and women What appears here is the essence of each person rendered by an expert and put in a new context bringing the history and geography of the North to life

Lobsticks and Stone Cairns Richard C. Davis, 2000 Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador Mina Benson Hubbard, Sherrill E Grace, 2004-05-19 In 1903 Hubbard's husband Leonidas starved to death on his cartographic and ethnographic expedition to Labrador Hubbard decided to complete her husband's work becoming a skilled explorer and cartographer in her own right She set out in July 1905 and with the help of George Elson a Métis guide who had been employed by her husband on the original trip and three other guides completed her expedition in record time with significant results including completing the first accurate map of the Labrador river system thus correcting the earlier map that had led to her husband's death Her original photographs and the map are reproduced in this volume Arctic Justice Shelagh Grant, 2005 Although there was no Canadian law enforcement in the Eastern High Arctic when a crazed white fur trader was killed by an Inuk authorities put Nuqallaq and two other Baffin Island Inuit on trial The Canadian government saw Robert Janes's death as murder the Inuit saw it as removing a threat from their society according to custom Nuqallaq was sentenced to ten years hard labour in Stony Mountain Penitentiary where he contracted tuberculosis He died shortly after being returned to Pond Inlet Shelagh Grant's award winning Arctic Justice is a masterly reconstruction of these tragic events at the intersection of Inuit and Canadian justice Combining original Inuit oral testimony with archival history Grant sheds light on the conflicting values and perceptions of two disparate cultures She shows how the Canadian government's decision was determined by fear and political concerns for establishing sovereignty over the Arctic Arctic Justice is also a social history of North Baffin Island in the twentieth century with vivid portraits of Janes Captain J E Bernier of the CGS Arctic investigating RCMP officer A H Joy and the remarkable Nuqallaq his wife Atagutτιαq and the Inuit of North Baffin Island

Paddling the Boreal Forest Max Finkelstein, James Stone, 2004-11-29 The boreal forest of Quebec Labrador some of the most rugged and isolated land in Canada has captivated avid canoeists for generations In the latter 19th and early 20th centuries the intrepid A P Low of the Geological Survey of Canada spent in total more than ten years of his working life surveying the area Employing Aboriginal canoeists and guides he travelled by canoe snowshoe and sailing vessel to map and document much of this vast territory Challenged by the mystique of this extraordinary Canadian canoeists Max Finkelstein and James Stone retraced Low's routes by their admission their toughest canoe trip ever. Using archival sources, oral history, and personal experience, they tell the story of A.P. Low and in the process reveal the environmental issues now facing this much-threatened Canadian wilderness. Once again, Max Finkelstein has blessed us with his incredible ability to make history of exploration come alive. Rather than sit behind a desk and try to imagine the misadventures Low would have had, he goes out and duplicates them, and along the way creates a few tales of his own. This is one great read, and we should be thankful that people like Max and Jim Stone exist in this world of ours. Kevin Callan, well-known author and canoeist. From A.P. Low's logs and reports, Max Finkelstein and Jim Stone give vitality to that great geological surveyor. Interspersed are vivid accounts of their own challenging canoe voyages on the same rivers and portages of the boreal forest and rock in the James Bay Ungava Labrador country of the Cree, Innu, and Inuit. What emerges is an eloquent testimonial for the wilderness canoe trip in the Canadian experience. Bruce W. Hodgins, Emeritus Professor of History, Trent University, President, Camp Wanapitei, Member, Advisory Council, Canadian Canoe Museum.

Hunters on the Track W. Gillies Ross, 2019-07-18. Captains of whaling vessels were experienced navigators of northern waters, and William Penny was in the vanguard of the whaling fraternity. Leading the first maritime expedition in search of Sir John Franklin, he stood out not just for his skill as a sailor but for his curiosity about northern geography and his willingness to seek out Inuit testimony to map uncharted territory. Hunters on the Track describes and analyzes the efforts made by the Scottish whaling master to locate Franklin's missing expedition. Bookended by an account of Penny's whaling career, including the rediscovery of Cumberland Sound, which would play a vital role in British whaling a decade later, W. Gillies Ross provides an in-depth history of the first Franklin searches. He reconstructs the brief but frenetic period when the English-speaking world was preoccupied with locating Franklin, but when the means of that search, the ships chosen, the route taken, the evidence of Franklin's traces were contested and uncertain. Ross details the particularities of each search at a time when no fewer than eight ships comprising four search expeditions were attempting to find Franklin's tracks. Reconstructing events, relationships, and decisions, he focuses on the work of Penny as commander of HMS Lady Franklin and Sophia, while also outlining the events of other expeditions and interactions among the officers and crews. William Penny is respected as one of the most influential and innovative figures in British Arctic whaling history, but his brief role in the Franklin expedition is less known. Using primary sources, notably private journals from each of the expeditions, Hunters on the Track places him at the forefront of a critical chapter of maritime history and the geographical exploration that began after Franklin disappeared.

Language, Politics, and Social Interaction in an Inuit Community Donna Patrick, 2013-06-10 Since the early 1970s the Inuit of Arctic Quebec have struggled to survive economically and culturally in a rapidly changing northern environment. The promotion and maintenance of Inuktitut, their native language, through language policy and Inuit control over institutions have played a major role in this struggle. Language, Politics, and Social Interaction in an Inuit Community is a study of indigenous language maintenance in an Arctic Quebec community where four languages, Inuktitut, Cree, French, and English, are spoken. It examines the role that dominant and minority languages play in the social life of this community, linking historical analysis with an ethnographic study of face-to-face interaction and attitudes towards learning and speaking second and third languages in everyday life.

Exploring Polar Frontiers William James Mills, 2003-12-11 Covers the entire history of Arctic and Antarctic exploration from the voyage of Pytheas ca. 325 B.C. to the present in one convenient, comprehensive reference resource. Exploring Polar Frontiers: A Historical Encyclopedia is the only reference work that provides a comprehensive history of polar exploration from the ancient period through the present day. The author is a noted polar scholar and offers dramatic accounts of all major explorers and their expeditions, together with separate exploration histories for specific islands, regions, and uncharted waters. He presents a wealth of fascinating information under a variety of subject entries, including methods of transport, myths, achievements, and record-breaking activities. By approaching polar exploration biographically, geographically, and topically, Mills reveals a number of intriguing connections between the various explorers, their patrons, and times, and the process of discovery in all areas of the polar regions. Furthermore, he provides the reader with a clear understanding of the intellectual climate as well as the dominant social, economic, and political forces surrounding each expedition. Readers will learn why the journeys were undertaken, not just where, when, and how.

The Blind Man and the Loon Craig Mishler, 2020-02-17 The story of the Blind Man and the Loon is a living Native folktale about a blind man who is betrayed by his mother or wife but whose vision is magically restored by a kind loon. Variations of this tale are told by Native storytellers all across Alaska, Arctic Canada, Greenland, the Northwest Coast, and even into the Great Basin and the Great Plains. As the story has traveled through cultures and ecosystems over many centuries, individual storytellers have added cultural and local ecological details to the tale, creating countless variations. In The Blind Man and the Loon: The Story of a Tale, folklorist Craig Mishler goes back to 1827, tracing the story's emergence across Greenland and North America in manuscripts, books, and in the visual arts and other media such as film, music, and dance theater. Examining and comparing the story's variants and permutations across cultures in detail Mishler brings the individual storyteller into his analysis of how the tale changed over time considering how storytellers and the oral tradition function within various societies Two maps unequivocally demonstrate the routes the story has traveled The result is a masterful compilation and analysis of Native oral traditions that sheds light on how folktales spread and are adapted by widely diverse cultures
