Photographs J. D. 'Okhai Ojeikere, 2000 J.D. 'Okhai Ojeikere ,2014 J.D. 'Okhai Ojeikere ,2010 Hairstyles and Headdresses ,2014 J.D. 'Okhai Ojeikere J. D. 'Okhai Ojeikere, André Magnin, 2000 No other aspect of fashion is as fleeting and ephemeral as hairstyles Whereas we might ponder the length of hemlines and the fabric du jour hair often escapes the passionate fashionista's fastidious and discerning gaze J D Okhai Ojeikere born 1930 who worked as an advertising photographer for most of his life has documented the hairstyles of his native Nigeria in painstaking detail for over thirty years Plaited braided in buns and in towering tresses Ojeikere's photographs hair reveals its sculptural qualities His deceptively simple classically composed photographs display hairstyles as a sheer play of forms minimal abstract transient artworks But Ojeikere's photographs do not merely purvey aesthetic pleasures They provide and unexpected insight into Nigerian culture Detailed captions tell us by whom and for which occasion a particular hairdo was worn leading the reader into a previously unfamiliar social milieu In an exhaustive text Ojeikere recounts his life as a photographer giving us a glimpse of the nascent African mass media culture of the 60s and 70s Photography Michelle Henning, 2023-01-06 We live in a time in which photographs have become extraordinarily mobile They can be exchanged and circulated at the swipe of a finger across a screen The digital photographic image appears and disappears with a mere gesture of the hand Yet this book argues that this mobility of the image was merely accelerated by digital media and telecommunications Photographs from the moment of their invention set images loose by making them portable reproducible projectable reduced in size and multiplied The fact that we do not associate analogue photography with such mobility has much to do with the limitations of existing histories and theories of photography which have tended to view photographic mobility as either an incidental characteristic or a fault Photography The Unfettered Image traces the emergence of these ways of understanding photography but also presents a differently nuanced and materialist history in which photography is understood as part of a larger development of media technologies It is situated in much broader cultural contexts caught up in the European colonial ambition to grasp the world and in the development of a new artificial second nature dependent on the large scale processing of animal and mineral materials Focussing primarily on Victorian and 1920s 30s practices and theories it demonstrates how photography was never simply a technology for fixing a fleeting reality Colonial Objects in Early Modern Sweden and Beyond Mårten Snickare, 2025-10-01 An elaborately crafted and decorated tomahawk from somewhere along the North American east coast how did it end up in the royal collections in Stockholm in the late seventeenth century What does it say about the Swedish kingdom's colonial ambitions and desires What questions does it raise from its present place in a display cabinet in the Museum of Ethnography in Stockholm Colonial Objects in Early Modern Sweden and Beyond is about the tomahawk and other objects like it acquired in colonial contact zones and displayed by Swedish elites in the seventeenth century Its first part situates the objects in two distinct but related spaces the expanding space of the colonial world and the

exclusive space of the Kunstkammer The second part traces the objects physical and epistemological transfer from the Kunstkammer to the modern museum system In the final part colonial objects are considered at the centre of a heated debate over the present state of museums and their possible futures

The African Photographic Archive Christopher Morton, Darren Newbury, 2020-10-15 African photography has emerged as a significant focus of research and scholarship over the last twenty years the result of a growing interest in postcolonial societies and cultures and a turn towards visual evidence across the humanities and social sciences At the same time many rich and fascinating photographic collections have come to light This volume explores the complex theoretical and practical issues involved in the study of African photographic archives based on case studies drawn from across the continent dating from the 19th century to the present day Chapters consider what constitutes an archive from the familiar mission and state archives to more local vernacular and personal accumulations of photographs the importance of a critical and reflexive engagement with photographic collections and the question of where and what is Africa as constructed in the photographic archive Essential reading for all researchers working with photographic archives this book consolidates current thinking on the topic and sets the agenda for future research in this field

New Spaces for Negotiating Art (and) Histories in Africa Kerstin Pinther, Berit Fischer, Ugochukwu-Smooth C. Nzewi, 2015 In the 1990s a new wave of globalization changed the field of cultural production in many African countries and paved the way for major new cultural events In particular during the last two decades an ever growing series of art and cultural centers were and still are being established often against the background of broader national art histories and the historic prominence of the state as the primary patron of the arts In considering the historical genealogy of these new spaces this book examines the infrastructures and public spaces they create the theoretical discourses they tap into and explore the aesthetic and cultural political debates they stir the role they play in the field of cultural institutions and cultural activism and their relations with state and municipal institutions

J. D. 'Okhai Ojeikere J. D. 'Okhai Ojeikere, Listening to Images Tina M. Campt, 2017-03-09 In Listening to Images Tina M. Campt explores a way of listening closely to photography engaging with lost archives of historically dismissed photographs of black subjects taken throughout the black diaspora Engaging with photographs through sound Campt looks beyond what one usually sees and attunes her senses to the other affective frequencies through which these photographs register She hears in these photos which range from late nineteenth century ethnographic photographs of rural African women and photographs taken in an early twentieth century Cape Town prison to postwar passport photographs in Birmingham England and 1960s mug shots of the Freedom Riders a quiet intensity and quotidian practices of refusal Originally intended to dehumanize police and restrict their subjects these photographs convey the softly buzzing tension of colonialism the low hum of resistance and subversion and the anticipation and performance of a future that has yet to happen Engaging with discourses of fugitivity black futurity and black feminist theory Campt takes these tools of colonialism and repurposes them hearing and sharing their moments of refusal rupture and imagination

New Growth Jasmine Nichole Cobb, 2022-11-11 From Frederick Douglass to Angela Davis natural hair has been associated with the Black freedom struggle In New Growth Jasmine Nichole Cobb traces the history of Afro textured coiffure exploring it as a visual material through which to reimagine the sensual experience of Blackness Through close readings of slave narratives scrapbooks travel illustrations documentary films and photography as well as collage craft and sculpture from the nineteenth century to the present Cobb shows how the racial distinctions ascribed to people of African descent become simultaneously visible and tactile Whether examining Soul Train's and Ebony's promotion of the Afro hairstyle alongside styling products or how artists such as Alison Saar and Lorna Simpson underscore the construction of Blackness through the representation of hair Cobb foregrounds the inseparability of Black hair's look and feel Demonstrating that Blackness is palpable through appearance and feeling Cobb reveals the various ways that people of African descent forge new relationships to the body public space and visual culture through the embrace of Black hair

Don't Touch My Hair Emma Dabiri, 2019-05-02 Groundbreaking a scintillating intellectual investigation into black women and the very serious business of our hair as it pertains to race gender social codes tradition culture cosmology maths politics philosophy and history Bernardine Evaristo Straightened Stigmatized Tamed Celebrated Erased Managed Appropriated Forever misunderstood Black hair is never just hair This book is about why black hair matters and how it can be viewed as a blueprint for decolonisation Over a series of wry informed essays Emma Dabiri takes us from pre colonial Africa through the Harlem Renaissance Black Power and on to today's Natural Hair Movement the Cultural Appropriation Wars and beyond We look everything from hair capitalists like Madam C J Walker in the early 1900s to the rise of Shea Moisture today from women's solidarity and friendship to black people time forgotten African scholars and the dubious provenance of Kim Kardashian's braids The scope of black hairstyling ranges from pop culture to cosmology from prehistoric times to the afro futuristic Uncovering sophisticated indigenous mathematical systems in black hairstyles alongside styles that served as secret intelligence networks leading enslaved Africans to freedom Don't Touch My Hair proves that far from being only hair black hairstyling culture can be understood as an allegory for black oppression and ultimately liberation

Fashioning the Afropolis Kerstin Pinther, Kristin Kastner, Basile Ndjio, 2022-07-14 A revelation Reclaiming fashion from its European history Shane White With a focus on sub-Saharan Africa Fashioning the Afropolis provides a range of innovative perspectives on global fashion design dress photography and the body in some of the major cities with a focus on Lagos Johannesburg Dakar and Douala It contributes to the ongoing debates around the globalization of fashion and fashion theory by exploring fashion as a genuine urban phenomenon on the continent and among its diasporas To date fashion and city have not been systematically related to each other in the African context and for too long a western-centric gaze has dominated scholarship resulting in the perception of Africa as provincial and its visual arts and textile cultures as static and folkloristic This perspective is all the more distorted given Africa's rich sartorial past With a huge number of tailors ready to adapt and renew clothing reshaping garments into contemporary styles and many cities in Africa becoming hot spots for a steadily growing and well-connected scene of fashion designers in the past 20 years the time is ripe for a reevaluation and reconsideration of the fashionscapes of Africa Leading scholars offer an updated empirical and theoretical foundation on which to base new and exciting research on sub-Saharan fashion challenging perceptions and offering new insights

Imaging Culture Candace M. Keller, 2021-07-06 Imaging Culture is a sociohistorical study of the meaning function and aesthetic significance of photography in Mali West Africa from the 1930s to the present Spanning the dynamic periods of colonialism national independence socialism and democracy its analysis focuses on the studio and documentary work of professional urban photographers particularly in the capital city of Bamako and in smaller cities such as Mopti and Ségou Featuring the work of more than twenty-five photographers it concentrates on those who have been particularly influential for the local development and practice of the medium as well as its international popularization and active participation in the contemporary art market Imaging Culture looks at how local aesthetic ideas are visually communicated in the photographers' art and argues that though these aesthetic arrangements have specific relevance for local consumers they transcend geographical and cultural boundaries to have value for contemporary global audiences as well Imaging Culture is an important and visually interesting book which will become a standard source for those who study African photography and its global impact

Photograph, 2010 The Art Institute of Chicago Field Guide to Photography and Media Antawan I. Byrd, Elizabeth Siegel, 2023-01-01 A roster of prominent artists curators and scholars offers a new entirely contemporary approach to our understanding of photography and media Focusing on the Art Institute of Chicago's deep and varied collection of photographs books and other printed matter installation art photobooks albums and time-based media

this ambitious wide ranging volume features short essays by prominent artists curators university professors and independent scholars that explore topics essential to understanding photography and media today The essays organized around themes ranging from the expected to the esoteric are paired with key objects from the collection in order to address issues of aesthetics history philosophy power relations production and reception More than 400 high quality reproductions amplify the authors arguments and suggest additional dialogues across conventional divisions of chronology genre geography and technology An introductory essay by Matthew S Witkovsky traces the museum s history of acquisitions and how the evolution of the museum s collection reflects broader changes in the critical reception of the field of photography and media
