Tales of the North Jack London, 2001. A collection of adventure stories by Jack London. In the Forests of the North Jack London, 2020-11-25. In Jack London's short story In the Forests of the North, two cultures clash with grave consequences. Explorers discover unmapped territory far in the North where they encounter an Eskimo settlement as well as a white man who disappeared years before. Upon meeting his brothers again, the white man called John Fairfax is tempted to leave the settlement where he has been for the last five years but is pulled back by his marriage to the local chief's daughter. Not willing to give up his husband, Fairfax's wife resists him leaving and a violent fight erupts between the visitors and local people. The short story is one of London's stories inspired by the period the writer spent at the Klondike Gold Rush in the late 19th century and was published in the early 20th century. Jack London 1876-1916 was an American writer and social activist. He grew up in the working class but became a worldwide celebrity and one of the highest paid authors of his time. He wrote several novels which are considered classics today among these: Call of the Wild, Sea Wolf and White Fang.
