Urban Histories in Practice Jeffrey Kruth, Steven Rugare, 2022-09-08 This volume brings together ideas about the material and social transformation of cities by asking what is the relationship between history memory and the contemporary city The urgency of this question grows in the contexts of rapid urbanization in the Global South and urban decline in the deindustrializing areas of the Global North Within these spaces multiple disciplines shape our capacity to know the contemporary city The work presented here invites the reader to undertake critical and creative approaches regarding how these disciplines might shape this process ultimately making it more equitable and just Using various methods the contributors engage in critical readings of specific built and discursive legacies in numerous global contexts Differing forms of a social agenda permeate each piece but none is utopian or totalizing Rather the emphasis is on various forms of close reading The authors begin with the city as found and address each context in specific and precise terms The contributions here bring together histories in critical and creative ways while also catalyzing future possibilities In this way these writings frame urban history and morphology discourse not only as arenas for theoretical posturing but also as calls for action

Contemporary Perspectives on Jane Jacobs Dirk Schubert, 2016-05-13 Jane Jacobs s famous book The Death and Life of Great American Cities 1961 has challenged the discipline of urban planning and led to a paradigm shift Controversial in the 1960s most of her ideas became generally accepted within a decade or so after publication not only in North America but worldwide as the articles in this volume demonstrate Based on cross disciplinary and transnational approaches this book offers new insights into her complex and often contrarian way of thinking as well as analyses of her impact on urban planning theory and the consequences for planning practice Now more than 50 years after the initial publication in a period of rapid globalisation and deregulated approaches in planning new challenges arise The contributions in this book argue that it is not possible simply to follow Jane Jacobs s ideas to the letter but instead it is necessary to contextualize them to look for relevant lessons for cities and planners and critically to re evaluate why and how some of her ideas might be updated Bringing together an international team of scholars and writers this volume develops conclusions based on new research as to how her work can be re interpreted under different circumstances and utilized in the current debate about the proclaimed millennium of the city the 21st century

The Urban Archetypes of Jane Jacobs and Ebenezer Howard Abraham Akkerman, 2020-01-09 Ebenezer Howard an Englishman and Jane Jacobs a naturalized Canadian personify the twentieth century's opposing outlooks on cities Howard had envisaged small towns newly built from scratch fashioned on single family homes with small gardens Jacobs embraced existing inner city neighbourhoods emphasizing the verve of the living street From Howard's idea

the American Dream of garden suburbs had emerged yet his conceptualization of a modern city received criticism for being uniform and alienated from the rest of the city Similarly at the turn of the new century Jacobs inner city neighbourhoods came to be recognized as the result of commodification vacillating between poverty and newly discovered hubs of urban authenticity Presenting Howard and Jacobs within a psychocultural context The Urban Archetypes of Jane Jacobs and Ebenezer Howard addresses our urban crisis in the recognition that city form is a gendered allegorical medium expressing femininity and masculinity within two founding features of the built environment void and volume Both founding contrasts bring tensions but also the opportunities of fusion between pairs of urban polarities human scale against superscale gait against speed and spontaneity against surveillance Jacobs and Howard in their respective attitudes have come to embrace the two ancient archetypes the Garden and the Citadel leaving it to future generations to blend their two contrarian stances

The Space Between (Cultural Exegesis) Eric O. Jacobsen,2012-08-01 The entire material world can be divided between the Natural Environment and the Built Environment Over the past forty years the Natural Environment has received more attention of the two but that is beginning to change With a renewed interest in place within various academic disciplines and the practical issues of rising fuel costs and scarcity of land the Built Environment has emerged as a coherent and engaging subject for academic and popular consideration While there is a growing body of work on the Built Environment very little approaches it from a distinctly Christian perspective This major new work represents a comprehensive and grounded approach Employing tools from the field of theology and culture it demonstrates how looking at the Built Environment through a theological lens provides a unique perspective on questions of beauty justice and human flourishing

Rail and the City Roxanne Warren,2014-09-12 An architect makes the case for rail transit as the critical infrastructure for a fluidly functioning and environmentally sustainable urban society The United States has evolved into a nation of twenty densely populated megaregions Yet despite the environmental advantages of urban density urban sprawl and reliance on the private car still set the pattern for most new development Cars guzzle not only gas but also space as massive acreage is dedicated to roadways and parking Even more pressing the replication of this pattern throughout the fast developing world makes it doubtful that we will achieve the reductions in carbon emissions needed to avoid climate catastrophe In Rail and the City architect Roxanne Warren makes the case for compact urban development that is supported by rail transit Calling the automobile a relic of the twentieth century Warren envisions a release from the tyrannies of traffic congestion petroleum dependence and an oppressively paved environment Technical features of rail are key to its high capacities safety at high speeds and compactness uniquely qualifying it to serve as ideal infrastructure within and between cities Ultimately mobility could be achieved through extensive networks of public transit particularly rail supplemented by buses cycling walking car sharing and small flexible vehicles High speed rail fed by local transit could eliminate the need for petroleum intensive plane trips of less than 500 miles Warren considers issues of access to transit citing examples from Europe Japan and North America and pedestrian and transit oriented urban design Rail transit she argues is the essential infrastructure for a fluidly functioning urban society

Straphanger Taras Grescoe, 2012-04-24 Taras Grescoe rides the rails all over the world and makes an elegant and impassioned case for the imminent end of car culture and the coming transportation revolution I am proud to call myself a straphanger writes Taras Grescoe The perception of public transportation in America is often unflattering a squalid last resort for those with one too many drunk driving charges too poor to afford insurance or too decrepit to get behind the wheel of a car Indeed a century of auto centric culture and city planning has left most of the country with public transportation that is underfunded ill maintained and ill conceived But as the demand for petroleum is fast outpacing the world's supply a revolution in transportation is under way Grescoe explores the ascendance of the straphangers the growing number of people who rely on public transportation to go about the business of their daily lives On a journey that takes him around the world from New York to Moscow Paris Copenhagen Tokyo Bogot Phoenix Portland Vancouver and Philadelphia Grescoe profiles public transportation here and abroad highlighting the people and ideas that may help undo the damage that car centric planning has done to our cities and create convenient affordable and sustainable urban transportation and better city living for all
