Hawk Mountain The Worlds First Raptor Sanctuary:

The View from Hawk Mountain Michael Harwood, 1973 Hawk Mountain John M. Wright, 2009 More than 75 000 people come to Hawk Mountain each year to experience its majesty particularly on the mountain's breathtaking North Lookout That wonderment is captured here in a book that combines new reporting with classic descriptions and a treasury of photographs of the winged visitors that soar by this place in huge numbers Based on two years of research and reporting Hawk Mountain describes the wonders of raptors and their migration showcases the site throughout the year and offers chapters from celebrated books from the mountain's past including Hawks Aloft by the sanctuary's first curator Maurice Broun Hawk Mountain also features two illustrations by the noted nature artist Fred Wetzel who has been associated with the sanctuary for more than 50 years Excerpted from book jacket Aeroecology Phillip B. Chilson, Winifred F. Frick, Jeffrey F. Kelly, Felix Liechti, 2018-03-23 This book consists of a diverse collection of chapters that seeks to broaden our fundamental understanding of the ecological function and biological importance of the Earth's lower atmosphere which provides a huge living space for billions of animals moving within and across continents Their migration dispersal and foraging activities connect water and land habitats within and across continents Drawing upon the wide ranging experience of the authors the book takes an inherently interdisciplinary approach that serves to introduce the reader to the topic of aeroecology frame some of the basic biological questions that can be addressed within the context of aeroecology and highlight several existing and emerging technologies that are being used to promote aeroecological studies The book begins with several background chapters that provide introduction into such topics as atmospheric science the concept of the habitat animal physiology and methods of navigation It then continues with a broad discussion of observational methods available to and used by aeroecologists Finally several targeted examples of aeroecological studies are presented Following the development of the chapters the reader is provided with a unifying framework for investigating how the dynamic properties of meteorological conditions at local regional and global scales affect the organisms that depend on the air for foraging and movement Material presented in the book should be of interest to anyone wishing to gain a comprehensive understanding of the aerosphere itself and the myriad airborne organisms that inhabit and depend upon this environment for their existence The material should be accessible to a diverse set of readers at all stages of training and across a range of research expertise Winging it, 1998

Enraptured by Raptors is a book inspired by a family of Red shouldered hawks who find their way into the hearts of an urban community in the midst of uncertain times Weeks into the initial throes of a world pandemic nation wide protests and a contentious political election a raptor nest is built by unwary hawks in a sycamore tree adjacent to a bustling Washington DC bridge Passing city buses and incessant foot traffic does little to deter the hawk family from its instinctual routine People from all walks of life and near and far neighborhoods stop to visit the bridge and nest watching wildlife unfold in all its splendor But more is revealed than just the hatchlings Nature is a panacea for what ails us and brings us closer to the core of our own existence People of all ages will enjoy and relate to this heart warming story of nature and nurture as shared in the photographs and field notes of Jennifer Packard
