Soul Shapers Jim Roy, 2005. Shaping young minds, coaxing fledglings to fly, is the most complex job in the world. In this volume, Jim Roy offers a new model for teachers and parents seeking to break out of the rote memory assembly-line approach to education. This book offers a method of homing in on excellence in the same way that a blindfolded dolphin seeks a ring tossed into the water using echolocation: the dolphin beats an indirect path to the ring, yet every turn, every correction brings it closer to the goal. What Monty Roberts, the horse whisperer, does gently but firmly with horses, you can do with children.

Managing the Classroom Environment Suzanne G. Houff, 2013-10-10. Using William Glasser's ideas as a foundation, this text explores the five basic needs and their implications for classroom management. Additional management concepts and ideas are enmeshed in the developmental recommendations to provide a theoretical and researched validation for a management plan that moves away from rewards and punishments and focuses on meeting the needs of the students. By investigating the basic needs of survival, belonging, fun, freedom, and power, the reader can develop strategies that will help students self-regulate and take responsibility for their academics and actions. Scenarios are used to provide practice with classroom situations by offering possible analysis, corrective measures, and preventive measures. A theory into practice approach helps illustrate how the concepts work in an actual situation.
