Finally, concerning a third, Barro's methodology may be problematic. In his paper, Barro (1997) uses a series of 1000 random draws from the distribution of the residuals of the regression of the log of GDP per capita on the log of the population to generate the distribution of the residuals of the regression of the log of GDP per capita on the log of the population. This is not a good idea, as the residuals of the regression of the log of GDP per capita on the log of the population are not normally distributed, and the distribution of the residuals of the regression of the log of GDP per capita on the log of the population is not symmetric.
