The Marine Biology of the South China Sea III Brian Morton, 1998-07-01 The first conference on the Marine Biology of the South China Sea was convened in Hong Kong in 1990 to celebrate the opening of the Swire Institute of Marine Science The second was convened in Guangzhou China in 1993 The third conference returned to Hong Kong in 1996 and in a continuing pattern of growth was attended by 127 scientists and students from 14 countries and territories Of the 104 keynote addresses papers and posters presented at the meeting 42 are published here following critical peer review under the symposium categories of Taxonomy and Biological Diversity Biology and Ecology and Coastal Zone Management and Conservation of the Biological Resources of the South China Sea Each conference sets its own symposia themes but in view of the rapid perceived decline in the marine environment of the South China Sea and the overexploitation of its resources the 1996 meeting focused its attention on these issues There are many meetings related to marine science convened by the countries of the South China rim Some are national others are international but most are typically convened by agencies and attendance is restricted to an invited few usually senior scientists Europe hosts a European Marine Biology Symposium that is convened in a different country each year and which sets the meeting's themes The proceedings of those meetings constitute one of the most authoritative accounts of the marine biology of European waters The meeting itself provides a forum for scientists and students so that international collaborative research is now a key feature of European marine science First convened in 1996 the 32 symposia are a tribute to international co-operation in research in a marine environment that of itself knows no boundaries The South China Sea countries also need such a forum free of political dogma This conference proceedings is the third to help promote such an event hopefully one day at a greater frequency than three years The fourth conference is to be convened in the Philippines in 1999 This volume then is an international perspective on the South China Sea by scientists who research it and are concerned for its future It contains information that should appeal to marine biologists throughout the world and in particular to those in Asia Hawaiian Islands Humpback Whale

Annual Report Western Society of Malacologists, The Environment in Asia Pacific Harbours Eric Wolanski, 2006-07-30 In the USA Asia and Europe as well as worldwide trade is growing rapidly and much of it depends on shipping This is leading to the development of mega cities and mega harbours The marine environment is degrading Is increasing trade ecologically sustainable This book addresses this question through harbours in the Asia Pacific region including Tokyo Bay the Pearl Estuary Hong Kong Shanghai Ho Chi Minh City Manila Bay Jakarta Bay Bangkok Singapore Klang Pearl Harbour and Darwin Much of the world trade goes through these harbours This book demonstrates through the writing of eminent scientists in each of these countries the oceanography and ecosystem science necessary to understand how these urbanised marine ecosystems function It offers science based solutions to achieve ecologically sustainable development These lessons are important not only for the Asia Pacific Region including Australia but also worldwide The book is a wake up call that all the countries in the Asia Pacific are facing the same serious socio economic and environmental problems with varying scales Each of these countries addresses

these issues differently This book shows that we have much to learn from each other to ensure that development does not need to be at the cost of the environment I commend this book for its comprehensive coverage of the links between oceanography ecosystem processes and socio economic issues

Abundance and Resilience Julie S. Field, Michael W. Graves, 2017-09-30 At the base of a steep cliff towering some 500 feet above the coast of the remote N Pali district on the island of Kaua i lies the spectacular historical and archaeological site at Nu alolo Kai First excavated by Bishop Museum archaeologists between 1958 and 1964 the site contained the well preserved remains of one of the largest and most diverse arrays of traditional and historic artifacts ever found in Hawai i The house sites that constitute the focus of Abundance and Resilience were built over five centuries of occupation and contained deeply buried stratified deposits extending more than nine feet beneath the surface The essays in this volume detail the work of archaeologists associated with the University of Hawai i who have been compiling and studying the animal remains recovered from the excavations The contributors discuss the range of foods eaten by Hawaiians the ways in which particular species were captured and harvested and how these practices might have evolved through changes in the climate and natural environment Adding to this are analyses of a sophisticated material culture how ancient Hawaiians fashioned animal remains into artifacts such as ornaments made of shell pointed bird bone pickers sea urchin and coral files and abraders turtle shell combs and bone handles for k hili feathered standards used by Hawaiian royalty For researchers Nu alolo Kai opened up the world of everyday life of indigenous Hawaiians between AD 1400 and 1900 More importantly we learn how their procurement and utilization of animals wild marine organisms and birds as well as domesticated dogs and pigs affected local resources Demonstrating that an increased preference for introduced animals such as dogs and pigs effectively limited negative impacts on wild animal resources the essays in Abundance and Resilience collectively argue that the Hawaiian community of Nu alolo Kai practiced a sustainable form of animal resource procurement and management for five centuries
