7 Dismantling the engine unit: removing the cylinder head and rotor - all models except RM50

1 As mentioned in the previous Section, all models except RM50 make use of CDI ignition systems. The CDI rotor are housed beneath the left-hand cover and should be removed to gain access to a larger central hole in the left-hand cover. Push a screwdriver into the hole, grinding a deeper hole into the cover to the left-hand cover of the cylinder head. To ensure the pin will not pull out of the hole, use the accompanying diagram for help.

Dismantling the engine unit: removing the gearbox sprocket

If the dismantling work is being carried out as a precursor to crankcase separation, the gearbox sprocket should be removed at this juncture. With the engine in position in the frame, it is easiest to release the sprocket retaining nut with the chain in place and the rear brake applied, as described in Section 3.6 of this Chapter.

With the engine on the workbench, the sprocket can be prevented from rotating by locking the crankshaft with a bar inserted through the connecting rod eye, and selecting top gear. Alternatively, loop the drive chain around the sprocket and clamp the ends with a self-locking wrench. Knock back the locking tabs, and slacken and remove the securing nut, washer and spacer.

9 Dismantling the engine: crankshaft pinion

- 1 Slacken the retaining outer cover to the rear clutch arm if this is still fitted. Note that the cover can be released, and some of the oil can be drained.
- 2 If it is necessary to remove the pinion, it can be removed after the cover has been removed.
