Jaguar Manual Assessment:

Test Pilot Brian Johnson, 2011-06-20 Test pilots dashing and courageous young men or foolhardy gamblers In this fully illustrated book written by the producer of the BBC1 television series of the same name we follow the ups and downs of a group of trainee test pilots at Boscombe Down in Wiltshire Beginning with the exacting selection procedure we discover what personal and professional qualities a pilot needs in order to become a test pilot Only six UK and twelve foreign students are chosen each year and once selected the pressure on them steadily mounts As the students learn to push each aircraft's performance to its limits they too are being mentally and physically stretched further than ever before Training is given on both fixed and rotary wing aircraft and by the end of the course each student is fully conversant with the different techniques necessary to fly each type They learn how to recover safely from spins how to cope with sudden failures of equipment in mid flight and how to land an aircraft with no power All the time they are assessing each aircraft's capabilities and the scope of the on board technology The final part of the course is the preview exercise when every student is required to evaluate an aircraft he has never flown before and to make a formal presentation to his tutors and examiners Using a number of remarkably frank interviews with students and tutors Brian Johnson explores the process of becoming a test pilot and reveals both the stresses and successes of the year The RAF has given its full support to both the book and the television programmes and thus has enabled Brian Johnson to produce a unique and authoritative account of the training for one of the most responsible and exciting jobs in modern aviation

Camera trapping is a powerful and now widely used tool in scientific research on wildlife ecology and management. It provides a unique opportunity for collecting knowledge investigating the presence of animals or recording and studying behaviour. Its visual nature makes it easy to successfully convey findings to a wide audience. This book provides a much needed guide to the sound use of camera trapping for the most common ecological applications to wildlife research. Each phase involved in the use of camera trapping is covered: Selecting the right camera type; Set up and field deployment of your camera trap; Defining the sampling design: presence/absence, species inventory, abundance, occupancy at species level, capture-mark-recapture for density estimation, behavioural studies, community level analysis; Data storage, management and analysis for your research topic with illustrative examples for using R and Excel; Using camera trapping for monitoring, conservation and public engagement. Each chapter in this edited volume is essential reading for students, scientists, ecologists, educators and professionals involved in wildlife research or management.

Road and Track, 2001-05 Risk Engineering A.V. Gheorghe, Ralf Mock, 2012-12-06

Industrial development is essential to improvement of the standard of living in all countries. People's health and the environment can be affected directly or indirectly by routine waste discharges or by accidents. A series of recent major industrial accidents and the effect of pollution highlighted once again the need for better management of routine and accidental risks. Moreover, the existence of natural hazards complicates even more the situation in any given region. In the past, effort to cope with these risks, if made at all, have been largely on a plant-by-plant basis. Some plants are well equipped to manage environmental and health hazards while others are not. Managing the hazards of modern technological systems has become a key activity in highly industrialised countries. Decision makers are often confronted with complex issues concerning economic and social development, industrialisation and associated infrastructure needs, population and land use planning. Such issues have to be addressed in such a way that ensures that public health will not be disrupted or substantially degraded. Due to the increasing complexity of technological systems and the higher geographical density of potential hazard sources, new methodologies and a novel approach to these problems are challenging risk managers and regional planners. Risks from these new complex technological systems are inherently different from those addressed by the risk managers for decades ago.
