Lights Came Marcia Duncan:

The Lights Came on for Marcia Duncan Lynn Cavendish, 2015-12-18 Marcia Duncan a young girl with learning difficulties lives with her alcoholic mother in a small terrace house on a rundown council estate She manages to survive her non eventful life with a mixture of hilarity ignorance and naivety The only solace and comfort she has outside of her own little world is her best friend Molly who despite not being the idol Marcia perceives takes her under her wing protecting and guiding her through the highs and lows of growing up moving forward from childlike activities in the park to the likes of discos alcohol and fashion The day that Marcia was dragged by her mother to the doctors to find out that she was seven months pregnant changed her life forever She genuinely had no idea how it happened and after Molly explains the gory details and Lily constantly bombards her with questions the hunt for the father begins The consequent birth of her daughter is a blessing in disguise giving her motivation for life bringing family bonds to the surface and eventually a level of independence and self worth However the journey is far from smooth and the frequent times when Marcia s clumsiness and accident prone comical antics hamper any kind of progress do not help in the least
