It turned out that the "best interest" rule was interpreted by the court to mean that the trustee should have acted in the best interest of the estate as a whole, rather than in the best interest of the individual beneficiary. The court found that the trustee had acted in the best interest of the estate as a whole, and therefore the trust was not set aside.

16. Assessment of the way that a firm uses its credit facilities is of importance. It is the kind of information that the firm has to provide to banks, and which is also available to creditors, in making lending decisions. The firm should be able to determine whether it uses credit facilities in a responsible manner.

²⁸ The fact that the defendant's attorney was present at the time of the search does not mean that the search was lawful. In United States v. Jones, 907 F.2d 685 (D.C., 1993), the court held that the presence of the defendant's attorney did not make a search lawful if the search was conducted without a warrant.
