Growth Recurring Eric Lionel Jones, 2000 An affordable new edition intended for course use Increasing Returns and Path Dependence in the Economy W. Brian Arthur, 1994 Pioneering work on an important new approach to economics Social Science Knowledge and Economic Development Vernon W. Ruttan, 2003 The central premise of this book is that the demand for social science knowledge is derived from the demand for institutional change pref The Voluntary City David T. Beito, Peter Gordon, Alexander Tabarrok, 2002 Challenges the orthodoxy that insists government alone can improve community life Democracy, Governance, and Growth Stephen F. Knack, 2003 Demonstrates the importance of governance and social institutions to economic performance Growth Triumphant Richard A. Easterlin, 2009-11-10 Taking a longer view than most literature on economic development Richard A Easterlin stresses the enormous contrast between the collective experience of the last half century in both developed and developing countries and what has gone before An economic historian and demographer the author writes in the tradition of the new economic history drawing on economic theory and quantitative evidence to interpret the historical experience of economic theory and population growth He reaches beyond the usual disciplinary limits to draw as appropriate on sociology political science psychology anthropology and the history of science The book will be of interest not only to social scientists but to all readers concerned with where we have been and where we are going Easterlin is both an economic historian and a demographer and it is the combination of these two disciplines and the fine balance between theory and experience that make this well written refreshingly optimistic book excellent reading Population and Development Review In this masterful synthesis Richard Easterlin draws on the disciplines of economic history demography sociology political science psychology and the history of science to present an integrated explanation of the origins of modern economic growth and of the mortality revolution His book should be easily accessible to non specialists and will give them a sense of why economic history can inform our understanding of the future Dora L Costa Massachusetts Institute of Technology EH Net and H Net Growth Triumphant is simply a fascinating book Easterlin has woven together a history of economic growth economic development human mortality and morbidity the connections each has with the others and the implications of this nexus of forces on the future This book deserves a wide audience Choice In what must surely be the most fair minded well balanced and scrupulously reasoned and researched book on the sensational subjects implied in its title the Industrial Revolution the mortality and fertility revolutions and the prospects for future happiness for the human race Professor Easterlin has set in place the capstone of his research career Journal of Economic History Richard A Easterlin is Professor of Economics University of Southern California Institutions and Economic Theory Eirik G. Furubotn, Rudolf Richter, 2005-10-21 This second edition assesses some of the major refinements extensions and useful applications that have developed in neoinstitutionalist thought in recent years More attention is given to the overlap between the New Institutional Economics and developments in economic history and political science In addition to updated references new material includes analysis of parallel developments in the field of economic sociology and its attacks on representatives of the NIE as well as an explanation of the institution as an equilibrium of game approach Already an international best seller Institutions and Economic Theory is essential reading for economists and students attracted to the NIE approach Scholars from such disciplines as political science sociology and law will find the work useful as the NIE continues to gain wide academic acceptance A useful glossary for students is included Eirik Furubotn is Honorary Professor of Economics Co Director of the Center for New Institutional Economics University of Saarland Germany and Research Fellow Private Enterprise Research Center Texas A M University Rudolph Richter is Professor Emeritus of Economics and Director of the Center for New Institutional Economics University of Saarland Germany

The Cult of Statistical Significance Deirdre Nansen McCloskey, Steve Ziliak, 2010-02-11 McCloskey and Ziliak have been pushing this very elementary very correct very important argument through several articles over several years and for reasons I cannot fathom it is still resisted If it takes a book to get it across I hope this book will do it It ought to Thomas Schelling Distinguished University Professor School of Public Policy University of Maryland and 2005 Nobel Prize Laureate in Economics With humor insight piercing logic and a nod to history Ziliak and McCloskey show how economists and other scientists suffer from a mass delusion about statistical analysis The quest for statistical significance that pervades science today is a deeply flawed substitute for thoughtful analysis Yet few participants in the scientific bureaucracy have been willing to admit what Ziliak and McCloskey make clear the emperor has no clothes Kenneth Rothman Professor of Epidemiology Boston University School of Health The Cult of Statistical Significance shows field by field how statistical significance a technique that dominates many sciences has been a huge mistake The authors find that researchers in a broad spectrum of fields from agronomy to zoology employ testing that doesn't test and estimating that doesn't estimate The facts will startle the outside reader how could a group of brilliant scientists wander so far from scientific magnitudes This study will encourage scientists who want to know how to get the statistical sciences back on track and fulfill their quantitative promise The book shows for the first time how wide the disaster is and how bad for science and it traces the problem to its historical sociological and philosophical roots Stephen T Ziliak is the author or editor of many articles and two books He currently lives in Chicago where he is Professor of Economics at Roosevelt University Deirdre N McCloskey Distinguished Professor of Economics History English and Communication at the University of Illinois at Chicago is the author of twenty books and three hundred scholarly articles She has held Guggenheim and National Humanities Fellowships She is best known for How to Be Human Though an Economist University of Michigan Press 2000 and her most recent book The Bourgeois Virtues Ethics for an Age of Commerce 2006

The Great Breakthrough and Its Cause Julian Lincoln Simon, 2000 Illuminates and explains the emergence of modern economic development in Western Europe after the seventeenth century

From Liberty to Democracy Randall G. Holcombe, 2002 An analysis of American political history using the economic framework of public choice theory

Altruistically Inclined? Alexander J. Field, 2010-08-27 Altruistically Inclined examines the implications of recent research in the natural sciences for two important social scientific approaches to individual behavior the economic rational choice approach and the sociological anthropological It considers jointly two controversial and related ideas the operation of group selection within early human evolutionary processes and the likelihood of modularity domain specific adaptations in our cognitive mechanisms and behavioral predispositions Experimental research shows that people will often cooperate in one shot prisoner s dilemma PD games and reject positive offers in ultimatum games contradicting commonly accepted notions of rationality Upon first appearance predispositions to behave in this fashion could not have been favored by natural selection operating only at the level of the individual organism Emphasizing universal and variable features of human culture developing research on how the brain functions and refinements of thinking about levels of selection in evolutionary processes Alexander J Field argues that humans are born with the rudiments of a PD solution module and differentially prepared to learn norms supportive of it His emphasis on failure to harm as opposed to the provision of affirmative assistance as the empirically dominant form of altruistic behavior is also novel The point of departure and principal point of reference is economics But Altruistically Inclined will interest a broad range of scholars in the social and behavioral sciences natural scientists concerned with the implications of research and debates within their fields for the conduct of work elsewhere and educated lay readers curious about essential features of human nature Alexander J Field is the Michel and Mary Orradre Professor of Economics at Santa Clara University

Institutions and Economic Theory Eirik G. Furubotn, Rudolf Richter, 2010-10-22 This second edition assesses some of the major refinements extensions and useful applications that have developed in neoinstitutionalist thought in recent years More attention is given to the overlap between the New Institutional Economics and developments in economic history and political science In addition to updated references new material includes analysis of parallel developments in the field of economic sociology and its attacks on representatives of the NIE as well as an explanation of the institution as an equilibrium of game approach Already an international best seller Institutions and Economic Theory is essential reading for economists and students attracted to the NIE approach Scholars from such disciplines as political science sociology and law will find the work useful as the NIE continues to gain wide academic acceptance A useful glossary for students is included Eirik Furubotn is Honorary Professor of Economics Co Director of the Center for New Institutional Economics University of Saarland Germany and Research Fellow Private Enterprise Research Center Texas A M University Rudolf Richter is Professor Emeritus of Economics and Director of the Center for New Institutional Economics University of Saarland Germany

Signaling Goodness Phillip J. Nelson, Kenneth V. Greene, 2010-03-10 Political intellectual and academic discourse in the United States has been awash in political correctness which has itself been berated and defended yet little understood As a corrective Nelson and Greene look at a more general process adopting political positions to enhance one s reputation for trustworthiness both to others and to oneself Phillip

Nelson and Kenneth Greene are Professors of Economics in the Department of Economics at the State University of New York Binghamton

Market-augmenting Government Omar Azfar, Charles Cadwell, 2003 Shows how governments and markets are complementary rather than opposing forces

Imperfect Institutions Þráinn Eggertsson, 2009-10-27 The emergence of New Institutional Economics toward the end of the twentieth century profoundly changed our ideas about the organization of economic systems and their social and political foundations Imperfect Institutions explores recent developments in this field and pushes the discussion forward by allowing for incomplete knowledge of social systems and unexpected system dynamics and above all by focusing explicitly on institutional policy Empirical studies extending from Africa to Iceland are cited in support of the theoretical argument In Imperfect Institutions Þráinn Eggertsson extends his attempt to integrate and develop the new field that began with his acclaimed Economic Behavior and Institutions 1990 which has been translated into six languages This latest work analyzes why institutions that create relative economic backwardness emerge and persist and considers the possibilities and limits of institutional reform Þráinn Eggertsson is Professor of Economics at the University of Iceland and Global Distinguished Professor of Politics at New York University Previously published works include Economic Behavior and Institutions 1990 and Empirical Studies in Institutional Change with Lee Alston and Douglass North 1996

Integrity and Agreement Alanson Minkler, 2009-11-16 Moral principle not mere self interest drives rational decision making

Capitol Investments Glenn R. Parker, 2009-11-10 A sophisticated yet accessible analysis of the acquisition and marketability of political skills

Markets and Cultural Voices Tyler Cowen, 2009-11-10 This intriguing work explores the world of three amateur artists A native tradition all of their painting is done in Mexico yet the finished product is sold almost exclusively to wealthy American art buyers Cowen examines this cultural interaction between Mexico and the United States to see how globalization shapes the lives and the work of the artists and their families The story of these three artists reveals that this exchange simultaneously creates economic opportunities for the artists but has detrimental effects on the village A view of the daily village life of three artists connected to the larger art world this book should be of particular interest to those in the fields of cultural economics Latino studies economic anthropology and globalization

Preference Pollution David George, 2009-10-27 Explores the failure of markets to shape desirable preferences

Imperfect Institutions Þráinn Eggertsson, 2005-04-20 Surveys the new institutional theory of economic prosperity and decline Explores institutional policy and opportunities for reform
