reclaim our lives from it all Start with Why 15th Anniversary Edition Simon Sinek, 2025-05-13 The inspiring life changing bestseller updated for its 15th anniversary with a new foreword by the author In 2009 Simon Sinek ignited a movement to help people find a greater sense of purpose at work and added a new word to the lexicon of business WHY People and companies now regularly talk about their WHY Sinek's videos have been seen by over a billion people around the world including more than 65 million who've watched his TED Talk based on Start With Why Sinek starts with a fundamental question Why are some people and organizations more innovative more influential and more profitable than others Why do some command greater loyalty from customers and employees alike Even among the successful why are so few able to repeat their success over and over Start With Why shows that the leaders who've had the greatest influence in the world all think act and communicate the same way and it's the opposite of what everyone else does People like Martin Luther King Jr Steve Jobs and the Wright Brothers had little in common but they inspired people not with WHAT they did but with WHY they did it Sinek provides a new easy to understand framework that inspires people to build organizations and lead movements in a more powerful and effective way And it all starts with WHY With a new foreword touching on the importance of holding onto our WHY in a distracted age new examples and original stories updated this 15th anniversary edition celebrates a simple but transformative idea that has changed the way we think about leadership and legacy Grow the Pie Alex

Edmans, 2021-11-11 Companies can both serve society and create profit This book shows how based on rigorous evidence and an actionable framework Doing Meritocracy Right Thomas A. Cole, 2025-11-24 A practical guide to more fully achieving a meritocratic society As America's most vaunted cultural value meritocracy is celebrated by some as an institution and derided by others as a myth or even a trap Thomas A Cole argues in Doing Meritocracy Right that if meritocracy is to persist as an institution and it must it requires structural support in the private sector For America to achieve a version of meritocracy that more closely matches our aspirations our business leaders must first offer equity of opportunity for individuals to demonstrate and develop their talents on equal terms Drawing on his decades of experience in advising CEOs and corporate boards personally serving on the boards of major not for profits and leading a large global law firm Cole cites elite professional service institutions consultancies and law firms especially as improbable laboratories for equity of opportunity These workplaces out of self interest are laser focused on the quality of their professionals seeking out talent and representation and then judging these individuals on ideally equal terms once they're in place Here Cole sees an opportunity that no public initiative or platitudes can deliver if workplaces seek out representational diversity by applying with thought and care a single standard of merit one that emphasizes character and by providing training and mentoring on an equitable basis then they will offer a ladder to social and economic mobility that serves both individuals and society Cole argues that a meritocratic society is achieved in two interrelated stages access to education and post education promotion to membership in the elite The latter he says is the domain of business Cole argues that the private sector is better positioned to effect reform and he encourages leaders in the private sector to pursue reform both in their organizations in government and in the universities and communities where they have influence Meritocracy in the private sector can't control the many American inequities that exist on the ground of American society But it can do social good by serving as a reliable merit determined path to the highest echelons of business and industry Cole sets the stage for the discussion of reforms with a brief history of our imperfect meritocracy and rounds out the book with a to do list for business leaders
