P. Herringham, 2015-07-12 Excerpt from A Handbook of Medical Pathology For the Use of Students in the Museum of St Bartholomew's Hospital Inflammation of joints occurs in the course of various diseases such as 1 Gout 2 Rheumatism 3 Osteo arthritis or rheumatoid arthritis 4 Locomotor Ataxia 5 Haemophilia 6 Syphilis 7 Pyaemia 8 Gonorrhoea Gouty Arthritis The characteristic feature of gouty arthritis is the deposition of sodium biurate in the cartilages The amount of the deposit varies greatly in different cases Sometimes there is merely a speck of urate in the centre of the cartilaginous covering of the articular surface of the bone whereas in other cases the whole of the articular cartilages may appear white and opaque as if covered with a coating of white paint In section the articular surface of the cartilage is seen to be first affected the deposit spreading inwards towards the bone and ultimately in severe cases invading it There is frequently some ulceration following upon degeneration of the cartilage and some pathologists maintain that the deposition of the sodium biurate is always preceded by such degenerative changes About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Practitioner Francis
