 Trainees Best Practices for Social Work with Refugees and Immigrants Miriam Potocky, Mitra Naseh, 2019-10-29 Social work practice with refugees and immigrants requires specialized knowledge of these populations and specialized adaptations and applications of mainstream services and interventions Because they are often confronted with cultural linguistic political and socioeconomic barriers these groups are especially vulnerable to psychological problems such as anxiety depression alienation grief and post traumatic stress disorder as well as concerns arising from inadequate health care Institutionalized discrimination and anti immigrant policies and attitudes only exacerbate these challenges The second edition of Best Practices for Social Work with Refugees and Immigrants offers an update to this comprehensive guide to social work with foreign born clients and an evaluation of various helping strategies and their methodological strengths and weaknesses Part 1 sets forth the context for evidence based service approaches for such clients by describing the nature of these populations relevant policies designed to assist them service delivery systems and culturally competent practice Part 2 addresses specific problem areas common to refugees and immigrants and evaluates a variety of assessment and intervention techniques in each area Using a rigorous evidence based and pancultural approach Miriam Potocky and Mitra Naseh identify best practices at the macro meso and micro levels to meet the pressing needs of uprooted peoples The new edition incorporates the latest research on contemporary social work practice with refugees and immigrants to provide a practical up to date resource for the multitude of issues and interventions for these populations Handbook of Oncology Social Work Grace Hyslop Christ, Carolyn Messner, Lynn C. Behar, 2015 This inaugural Handbook of Oncology Social Work Psychosocial Care for People with Cancer provides for the first time a repository of the breadth and scope art and science of oncology social workers

Medical English as a Lingua Franca M. Gregory Tweedie, Robert C. Johnson, 2022-02-21 In this first book length treatment of MELF the authors assert that MELF represents an important contribution to our understanding of English as a Lingua Franca ELF in that existing ELF research has been limited to relatively low stakes communicative situations such as interactions in business academia internet blogging or casual conversations Medical contexts in contrast often represent situations calling for exceptional communicative precision and urgency Providing both evidence from their own research and analysis from the limited number of existing studies the authors offer a counterpoint to the optimism regarding communicative success prevalent in ELF The book proposes a theoretical perspective on how the various features of healthcare communication serve as important variables in shaping interaction among speakers of ELF further enlarging our understanding of this emerging sub field

Working with Interpreters and Translators Henriette W. Langdon, Terry Irvine Saenz, 2015-10-15 Working with Interpreters and Translators A Guide for Speech Language Pathologists and Audiologists offers state of the art procedures to conduct interviews assessments and conferences with students with limited English language proficiency and their families As no research base is available in the field of communicative disorders on this specific topic the information presented in this guide is supported by a critical review of the literature on best practices in interpreting for international conferences and legal and medical fields Furthermore the authors experience working with language interpreters and training professionals as well as graduate students in communicative disorders makes this a very valuable resource for professionals interpreters translators as well as undergraduate and graduate students Federal and state laws specify that if necessary English language learners ELL need to be assessed in their native language when referred for possible special education The number of ELL students attending public schools across the nation has increased in the past few decades There are not enough speech language pathologists SLPs or audiologists who are proficient in the various languages spoken by ELL students even in Spanish the most common language spoken by ELL students in the United States The next best solution is to conduct assessments in collaboration with a trained interpreter translator Key features include Information and references for the most common languages spoken by ELL students Discussion of culturally based variables that need to be considered in the process of interviewing and working with linguistically and culturally diverse populations Description of the roles and responsibilities for individuals who will be collaborating as interpreters and translators with SLPs and audiologists in various contexts such as interviews assessments and various meetings such as IEPs and IFSPs as well as suggestions on training individuals in this collaborative process Review of best practices in speech language and audiological assessments both with and without materials in the given language Disclaimer Please note that ancillary content such documents audio and video may not be included as published in the original print version of this book Working with Interpreters and Translators A Guide for Speech Language Pathologists and Audiologists is a must have reference for anyone working with ELL students Although the process was developed with the pediatric population in mind much of this information can be applied to older culturally and linguistically diverse populations in need of speech language and or hearing services It will also be useful to professionals working with language interpreters in allied health professions in other countries
