A Cultural History of Civil Examinations in Late Imperial China Benjamin A. Elman,2000-03-22 In this multidimensional analysis Benjamin A Elman uses over a thousand newly available examination records from the Yuan Ming and Ch ing dynasties 1315 1904 to explore the social political and cultural dimensions of the civil examination system one of the most important institutions in Chinese history For over five hundred years the most important positions within the dynastic government were usually filled through these difficult examinations and every other year some one to two million people from all levels of society attempted them Covering the late imperial system from its inception to its demise Elman revises our previous understanding of how the system actually worked including its political and cultural machinery the unforeseen consequences when it was unceremoniously scrapped by modernist reformers and its long term historical legacy. He argues that the Ming Ching civil examinations from 1370 to 1904 represented a substantial break with Tang-Sung dynasty literary examinations from 650 to 1250. Late imperial examinations also made Tao Learning Neo-Confucian learning the dynastic orthodoxy in official life and in literati culture. The intersections between elite social life, popular culture and religion that are also considered reveal the full scope of the examination process throughout the late empire.

Chang'an 26 BCE Michael Nylan, Griet Vankeerberghen, 2014-12-01. During the last two centuries BCE, the Western Han capital of Chang'an, near today's Xi'an in northwest China, outshone Augustan Rome in several ways while administering comparable numbers of imperial subjects and equally vast territories. At its grandest during the last fifty years or so before the collapse of the dynasty in 9 CE, Chang'an boasted imperial libraries with thousands of documents on bamboo and silk in a city nearly three times the size of Rome and nearly four times larger than Alexandria. Many reforms instituted in this capital in late Western Han substantially shaped not only the institutions of the Eastern Han (25-220 CE) but also the rest of imperial China until 1911. Although thousands of studies document imperial Rome's glory until now, no book-length work in a Western language has been devoted to Han Chang'an, the reign of Emperor Chengdi, whose accomplishments rival those of Augustus and Hadrian or the city's impressive library project (26-6 BCE) which ultimately produced the first state-sponsored versions of many of the classics and masterworks that we hold in our hands today. Chang'an 26 BCE addresses this deficiency using as a focal point the reign of Emperor Chengdi (r. 33-7 BCE), specifically the year in which the imperial library project began. This in-depth survey by some of the world's best scholars, Chinese and Western, explores the built environment, sociopolitical transformations and leading figures of Chang'an, making a strong case for the revision of historical assumptions about the two Han dynasties. A multidisciplinary volume representing a wealth of scholarly perspectives, the book draws on the established historical record and recent archaeological discoveries of thousands of tombs, building foundations and remnants of walls and gates from Chang'an and its surrounding area.
