1960 became one of the few African Americans of his time to engage in travel writing. He went to emerging nations not as a sightseer but as a student of their cultures, learning the politics and the processes of social transformation. When Wright fled from the United States in 1946 to live as an expatriate in Paris, he was exposed to intellectual thoughts and challenges that transcended his social and political education in America. Three events broadened his world view: his introduction to French existentialism, the rise of the Pan Africanist movement to decolonize Africa, and Indonesia's declaration of independence from colonial rule in 1945. During the 1950s, as he traveled to emerging nations, his encounters produced four travel narratives: Black Power (1953), The Color Curtain (1956), Pagan Spain (1956), and White Man Listen (1957). Upon his death in 1960, he left behind an unfinished book on French West Africa, which exists only in notes, outlines, and a draft. Written by multinational scholars, this collection of essays exploring Wright's travel writings shows how, in his hands, the genre of travel writing resisted, adapted, or modified the forms and formats practiced by white authors. Enhanced by nine photographs taken by Wright during his travels, the essays focus on each of Wright's four separate narratives, as well as upon his unfinished book, and reveal how Wright drew on such non-Western influences as the African American slave narrative and Asian literature of protest and resistance. The essays critique Wright's representation of customs and people and employ a broad range of interpretive modes, including the theories of formalism, feminism, and postmodernism, among others. Wright's travel books are proved here to be innovative narratives that laid down the roots of such later genres as postcolonial literature, contemporary travel writing, and resistance literature.

Virginia Whatley Smith is an associate professor of English at the University of Alabama, Birmingham. Her work has appeared in African American Review, Mississippi Quarterly, and MLA Approaches to Teaching Wright's Native Son. Canadian Books in Print. Author and Title Index, 1975. Sunflower Days Alicia Easton, 2024-08-22. Written from years in the early stages of motherhood, Sunflower Days explores the wonder and challenges of stepping into the wild, awe-struck, life-changing season of becoming a mother. Alicia gives words to the moments and feelings so many women find themselves in as they learn to parent young children. In a collection of varied memoirs and poetry, she shares snippets of her motherhood journey, in light of her faith, personal experiences, and experiences shared with other mamas.
