Blindness is not the end Daniel Malone, 2025-03-25 In this book I will express my journey from a self centered free falling destructive lifestyle which had no direction to a man who experienced a spiritual awakening outside the boundaries of fear and religion Having full vision until the age of 24 I was in an auto accident that flooded my face with battery acid and burned my eyes beyond repair which left me blind When the worst possible thing that could happen to me blindness happened I thought things could not get any worse Only after total surrender to the God of my understanding and a willingness to look at God s direction did that small spark of hope come into my heart I learned that Faith is the opposite of fear As I look back I now realize that my life was Based on fear Not knowing what to do and having no direction I had a free falling lifestyle with alcohol leading my way When this lifestyle brought me close to death and caused permanent damage to me and my loved ones I had no choice but to change I decided to try faith over fear How can I be better off now being blind then when I was sighted In this book I will express the transformation in my life from being a fully sighted boy who always felt unworthy to a physically blind man who lives his life to the fullest and has more faith and love with God with life beyond my wildest dreams

Paddy Moriarty Key players are interviewed evidence laid out and suspects assessed Never before published information is revealed Can you help crack the case and solve these mysteries Hold tight as Unsolved Australia Lost Boys Gone Girls takes you on a chilling yet inspiring true crime rollercoaster ride where the final destination is hope After Marriage Elizabeth Brake, 2016 This collection of essays by liberal and feminist philosophers addresses the question of whether marriage reform ought to stop with same sex marriage Some philosophers have recently argued that marriage is illiberal and should be abolished or radically reformed to include groups and non romantic friendships In response Simon May argues that marriage law can be justified without an illiberal appeal to an ideal relationship type and Ralph Wedgwood argues that the liberal values which justify same sex marriage do not justify further extension Other authors argue for new legal forms for intimate relationships Marriage abolitionist Clare Chambers argues that piecemeal directives rather than relationship contracts should replace marriage and Samantha Brennan and Bill Cameron argue for separating marriage and parenting with parenting rather than marriage becoming legally and socially the foundation of the family Elizabeth Brake argues for a non hierarchical friendship model for marriage Peter de Marneffe argues that polygamy should be decriminalized but that the liberal state need not recognize it while Laurie Shrage argues that polygamy could be legally structured to protect privacy and equality Dan Nolan argues for temporary marriage as a legal option while Anca Gheaus argues that marital commitments are problematic instruments for securing the good of romantic and sexual love Taken together these essays challenge contemporary understandings of marriage and the state's role in it Isolated Cases Nancy Yousef, 2004 The literature of the romantic period has consistently been seen as the source of modern concepts of the individual Nancy Yousef maintains however that the dominant account of the self in romanticism is in need of profound revision While individuals presented in central texts of the period are indeed often alone or separated from others Yousef regards this isolation as a problem the texts attempt to illuminate rather than a condition they construct as normative or desirable As her argument moves from the eighteenth to the nineteenth century through both philosophical and literary writing her book offers a new account of autonomy and of the complex romantic inheritance of enlightenment preoccupations with the origins of human association and the course of human development In her richly interdisciplinary book Nancy Yousef addresses the emergence of autonomy demonstrating that the ideal was beset from its beginnings by profound concerns over the possibilities and grounds of human relations and interdependence Isolated Cases draws attention to the strain of intersubjective anxieties and longings hidden within representations of the individual as self sufficient and self defining Among the writers and thinkers Yousef treats at length are John Locke John Stuart Mill Jean Jacques Rousseau Mary Shelley and William Wordsworth
