School Farms Alshimaa Aboelmakarem Farag,Samaa Badawi,Gurpinder Lalli,Maya Kamareddine,2021-11-28 This book highlights the potential of school farms to fight hunger and malnutrition by providing access to locally produced fresh and healthy food as well as providing young students with educational opportunities to learn interact with nature and develop their skills Hunger is one of the most pressing concerns we face today and there is a clear need to provide alternative sources of food to feed a fast growing population School farms offer a sustainable opportunity to produce food locally in order to feed underprivileged students who rely on school meals as an integral part of their daily diet Approaching the concept of school farms through four themes Problem People Process and Place the book shows how they can play an essential role in providing sustainable and healthy food for students the critical role educational institutions can play in promoting this process and the positive impact hands on farming can have on students mental and physical wellbeing Utilizing the authors personal hands on experiences and drawing on global case studies the book provides a theoretical framework and practical guidance to help with the establishment of school farms and community based gardening projects and an education system which promotes a sustainable and healthy approach to food agriculture and the environment This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of food security agriculture healthy and sustainable diets education for sustainable development and urban studies It will also be of great interest to practitioners and policymakers involved in food policy developing school and community projects global health and international development as well as education professionals

Children, Youth and Development Nicola Ansell, 2016-08-08 The new updated edition of Children Youth and Development explores the varied ways in which global processes in the form of development policies economic and cultural globalisation and international agreements interact with more locally specific practices to shape the lives of young people living in the poorer regions of the world It examines these processes and the effects they have on young people s lives in relation to developing theoretical approaches to the study of children and youth This landmark title brings together the stock of knowledge and approaches to understanding young people s lives in the context of development and globalization in the majority world for the first time It introduces different theoretical approaches to the study of young people and explores the ways in which these along with predominantly Western conceptions of childhood and youth have influenced how majority world children have been viewed and treated by international agencies Contexts of globalisation and growing international inequality are explored alongside more immediate contexts such as family and peer relationships Chapters are devoted to groups of children deemed to be in need of protection and to debates concerning children s rights and their participation in development projects Young people s health and education are considered as is their involvement in work of various kinds and the impacts of environmental change and hazards including climate change The book introduces material and concepts to readers in a very accessible way and within each chapter employs features such as boxed case studies summaries of key ideas discussion questions and guides to further resources This edition has been updated to take account of significant changes in the contexts in which poor children grow up notably the financial crisis and changing development policy environment as well as recent theoretical developments It is aimed at students on higher level undergraduate and postgraduate courses as well as researchers who are unfamiliar with this area of research and practitioners in organisations working to ameliorate the lives of children in majority world countries

Key Thinkers on Space and Place Phil Hubbard, Rob Kitchin, 2010-11-30 In this latest edition of Key Thinkers on Space and Place editors Phil Hubbard and Rob Kitchin provide us with a fully revised and updated text that highlights the work of over 65 key thinkers on space and place. Unique in its concept the book is a comprehensive guide to the life and work of some of the key thinkers particularly influential in the current spatial turn in the social sciences. Providing a synoptic overview of different ideas about the role of space and place in contemporary social, cultural, political and economic life, each portrait comprises Biographical information and theoretical context. An explication of their contribution to spatial thinking. An overview of key advances and controversies. Guidance on further reading. With 14 additional chapters including entries on Saskia Sassen, Tim Ingold, Cindi Katz and John Urry, the book covers ideas ranging from humanism, Marxism, feminism and post-structuralism to queer theory, post-colonialism, globalization and deconstruction, presenting a thorough look at diverse ways in which space and place has been theorized. An essential text for geographers, this now classic reference text is for all those interested in theories of space and place, whether in geography, sociology, cultural studies, urban studies, planning, anthropology or women's studies.

Savoring Alternative Food Jessica Hayes-Conroy, 2014-09-19 Advocates of the alternative food movement often insist that food is our common ground, that through the very basic human need to eat we all become entwined in a network of mutual solidarity. In this challenging book the author explores the contradictions and shortcomings of alternative food activism by examining specific endeavours of the movement through various lenses of social difference, including class, race, gender and age. While the solidarity adage has inspired many, it is shown that this has also had the unfortunate effect of promoting sameness over difference, eschewing inequities in an effort to focus on being together at the table. The author explores questions of who belongs at the table of alternative food and who gets to decide what is eaten there and what is at stake when alternative food practices become the model for what is right to eat. Case studies are presented based on fieldwork in two distinct loci of alternative food organizing: school gardens and slow food movements in Berkeley, California and rural Nova Scotia. The stories take social difference as a starting point but they also focus specifically on the complexities of sensory experience, how material bodies take up social difference, both confirming and disrupting it in the visceral processes of eating. Overall, the book demonstrates the importance of moving beyond a promotion of universal shoulds of eating and towards a practice of food activism that is more sensitive to issues of social and material difference.

Terraced Landscapes Drago Kladnik, 2017-09-01 Terraced landscapes with agricultural terraces are cultural landscapes with a special value. They provide food and also have priceless scientific, cultural, historical, ecological, aesthetic and even psychological, philosophical and religious value. They form a unique agricultural and ecological system that can be found throughout the world In some developed civilizations they were created in an organized manner over millennia and in others they arose completely spontaneously as people adapted to natural conditions and improved their opportunities to make a living They therefore reflect a harmony between man and nature and in many cases also between people themselves This volume presents them in pictures and words in all their diversity and attractiveness After discussing the global and European dimensions of terraced landscapes and their agricultural terraces the volume focuses on Slovenian terraced landscapes they are discussed separately by landscape types and sample cases in the territory of selected settlements pilot areas The conclusion also draws attention to the exceptional value and appeal of non agricultural terraced landscapes that have been shaped by nature and man
