The Rise of the Midwestern Meat Packing Industry Margaret Walsh, 2014-07-15 The history of the meat packing industry of the Midwest offers an excellent illustration of the growth and development of the economy of that major industrial region In the course of one generation meat packing matured from a small scale part time activity to a specialized manufacturing operation Margaret Walsh s pioneering study traces the course of that development shedding light on an unexamined aspect of America s economic history As the Midwest emerged from the frontier period during the 1840s and 1850s the growing urban demand for meat products led to the development of a seasonal industry conducted by general merchants during the winter months In this early stage the activity was widely dispersed but centered mainly along rivers which provided ready transportation to markets The growth of the railroads in the 1850s coupled with the westward expansion of population created sharp changes in the shape and structure of the industry The distinct advantages of good rail connections led to the concentration of the industry primarily in Chicago but also in St Louis and Milwaukee The closing of the Mississippi River during the Civil War insured the final dominance of rail transport and spelled the relative decline of such formerly important packing points as Cincinnati and Louisville By the 1870s large and efficient centralized stockyards were being developed in the major centers and improved technology particularly ice packing favored those who had the capital resources to invest in expansion and modernization By 1880 the use of the refrigerated car made way for the chilled beef trade and the foundations of the giant meat packing industry of today had been firmly established Margaret Walsh has located an impressive array of primary materials to document the rise of this important early industry the predecessor and in many ways the precursor of the great industrial complex that still dominates today s midwestern economy Guide to America; a Treasury of Information about Its States, Cities, Parks, and Historical Points of Interest , 1947 Farmers' Guide , 1904 Trade Regulation Reporter: Laws, federal and state ; FTC rules guides ; U.S. case summaries , 1988 National 4-H Club News , 1936 Domestic Commerce Series United States. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, 1938 Struggling with "Iowa's Pride" Wilson J. Warren, 2000 a Recognized between 1880 and 1910 by its trademark label Iowa s Pride John Morrell and Company is best known for contributing one of the most important local unions to the progressive United Packinghouse Workers of America During the 1930s and 1940s its members pursued a militant brand of unionism By the early 1950s the local s militancy became a source of contention among the membership By explaining the effect of Morrell Ottumwa s union leaders on local and state Democratic politics especially in the development of the Congress of Industrial Organizations Iowa State Industrial Union Council and the AFL CIO s Iowa Federation of Labor Wilson Warren makes an important contribution to the literature on labor's involvement in the Democratic party's ascendancy across much of the industrial North following World War II. This history of Ottumwa's meatpacking workers provides insights into the development of several forms of labor relations including the evangelical Christian paternalism, welfare capitalism, and unionism that were distinctive to one blue collar community but that also reflected workers' experiences in many other rural midwestern industrial communities. By carefully analyzing all relevant labor and industrial sources and by revealing the deeply held aspirations and concerns expressed by both workers and managers, Warren constructs a window through which Iowa's industrial and labor history over the past 120 years can be viewed.
