

LAB 6-B CYCLONIC WEATHER SYSTEMS

INTRODUCTION: The United States Weather Service is a division of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). Data is collected from about 4000 stations in the United States, as well as from foreign countries and from ships at sea. This information is instrumental in weather, energy, ozone, ozone depletion, and CFC work. This section shows plots that meteorologists use to synthesize data used to predict any weather changes.

Weather patterns are weather conditions, and they vary for different geographic areas of the United States. The National Weather Service Forecast Center in Kansas City, Missouri, produces and distributes forecasts, while the Bureau was directed by the National Hurricane Center in Miami, Florida. In addition to using meteorological synoptic maps for forecast, there is also weather conditions. These conditions show synoptic meteorological maps and NOAA best estimates and forecast changes.

OBJECTIVE: Analyze a series of synoptic weather maps with determination that leads to a weather system and make a 24-hour prediction for a given location. This will use various maps and a forecast and a forecast for synoptic data interpretation of these weather systems.
