Shelden,Pavel V. Vasiliev,2017-12-19 Throughout history the powerful have created laws developed agencies to enforce those laws and established institutions to punish lawbreakers Maintaining the social order to their advantage resulted in the systematic repression of disadvantaged groups the dangerous classes The third edition retains a historical approach to exploring patterns of social control and through current examples demonstrates how those strategies continue today The authors trace the roots of race class and gender bias in how laws are written interpreted and applied The management of dangerous classes is not a recent phenomenon there is a long history of keeping those who derive the least advantage from the status quo and therefore pose the greatest threat under control There was and is one system of justice for the privileged and a very different system for the less privileged The criminal justice system from the law to daily operations of the police courts and corrections generally comes down hardest on those with the least amount of power and influence and is the most lenient with those with the most power and influence The book raises critical questions What is a crime What is law Whose interests are served by the law and the criminal justice system What patterns are repeated generation after generation How does the criminal justice system relate to larger issues such as social inequality social class race and gender Contemplation of these topics contributes to informed public dialogue and careful deliberation about the present state and the future of criminal justice

Worker Well-Being Solomon W. Polachek, S. W. Polachek, 2000-12-20

How do technology public works projects mental health race gender mobility retirement benefits and macroeconomic policies affect worker well being This volume contains fourteen original chapters utilizing the latest econometric techniques to answer this question The findings include the following technology gains explain over half the decline in U S unemployment and over two thirds the reduction in U S inflation universal health coverage would reduce U S labor force participation by 3.3 per cent blacks respond to regional rather than national changes in schooling rates of return perhaps implying a more local labor market for blacks than whites employee motivation enhances labor force participation on the job training job satisfaction and earnings male and female promotion and quit rates are comparable once one controls for individual and job characteristics public works programs designed to increase a worker's skills do not always increase reemployment and U S pension wealth increased about 20 per cent 25 per cent over the last two decades
