M. McCann,John V. Knapp,2021-12-15 In looking for an approach to teaching literature in high school teachers largely fall back on the methods that they had experienced as students These practices often involve a teacher assigning a complex work of literature and then assessing students reading through in class recitations or quizzes Teachers typically dominate the discourse and sometimes take charge of the task by reading aloud whole swathes of texts to their students We know from our own experience as teachers supervisors of teachers and student teachers and researchers in the field that students are often bored with these approaches and teachers are frequently frustrated with learners unenthusiastic responses to the teachers favorite works of literature There has to be a better way This book offers approaches to engage students in productive procedures for reading complex texts and provides sample activities to allow learners to practice those procedures A evolution from animal and primate behaviour What is specifically human about the way we exchange information with other people and to what extent are our facial expressions body language and even emotive elements of speech still indebted to our pre human ancestors Why can the chimpanzees smart as they are not interpret animal tracks in the ground why did religions often ban representational art why is photography perceptually more powerful than painting how have human syntactic speech and combinatorial grammar enabled the explosion of culture and why do otherwise rational humans often strongly believe in the objective existence of unempirical virtual entities such as religious and philosophic concepts These and many other fascinating questions are addressed in the book within the methodological framework of systems theory and
