Homo Sapiens An Appraisal Of Modern Humans:

Homo Sapiens Rajan Jaisinghani, 2015 Origins of Anatomically Modern Humans Doris V. Nitecki, Matthew H. Nitecki, 2013-11-11 This volume is based on the Field Museum of Natural History Spring Systematics Symposium held in Chicago on May 11 1991 The financial support of Ray and Jean Auel and of the Field Museum is gratefully acknowledged When we teach or write we present only those elements that support our arguments We avoid all weak points of our debate and all the uncertainties of our models Thus we offer hypotheses as facts Multiauthored books like ours which simultaneously advocate and question diverse views avoid the pitfalls and lessen the impact of indoctrination In this volume we analyze the anthropological and biological disagreements and the positions taken on the origins of modern humans point out difficulties with the interpretations and suggest that the concept of the human origin can be explained only when we first attempt to define Homo sapiens sapiens One of the major controversies in physical anthropology concerns the geographic origin of anatomically modern humans It is undisputed due to the extensive research of the Leakeys and their colleagues that the family Hominidae originated in Africa but the geographic origin of Homo sapiens sapiens is less concretely accepted Two schools of thought exist on this topic The Emergence of Modern Humans Erik Trinkaus, 1989 Emergence and Diversity of Modern Human Behavior in Paleolithic Asia Yousuke Kaifu, Masami Izuhara, Ted Goebel, Hiroyuki Sato, Akira Ono, 2014-12-19 Despite the obvious geographic importance of eastern Asia in human migration its discussion in the context of the emergence and dispersal of modern humans has been rare Emergence and Diversity of Modern Human Behavior in Paleolithic Asia focuses long overdue scholarly attention on this under studied area of the world Arising from a 2011 symposium sponsored by the National Museum of Nature and Science in Tokyo this book gathers the work of archaeologists from the Pacific Rim of Asia Australia and North America to address the relative lack of attention given to the emergence of modern human behavior as manifested in Asia during the worldwide dispersal from Africa The Political Economy of Contemporary Human Civilisation, Volume I Sangaralingam Ramesh, 2025-03-21 This book the first of two volumes examines the evolution of humanity and development global economic systems to provide insight into the advances and challenges they have created By placing modern technology and global crises within the context of long term human development it evaluates the threat of climate change on future generations by showing how past civilizations have survived and succumbed to climate events A similar approach is taken with migration where the current migration crisis is contrasted against historic migration patterns The potential for artificial intelligence quantum computing nuclear fusion and biotechnology to combat these challenges as well as tackle poverty and inequality are also discussed This book highlights the consequences of human cognition and the constant desire for economic growth and evaluates whether they have been a net positive for human society It will be of interest to students and researchers working on political economy and global challenges Southern Asia, Australia, and the Search for Human Origins Robin Dennell, Martin Porr, 2014-02-24 This is the first book to focus on the role of Southern Asia and Australia in our understanding of modern human origins and the expansion of Homo sapiens between East Africa and Australia before 30 000 years ago With contributions from leading experts that take into account the latest archaeological evidence from India and Southeast Asia this volume critically reviews current models of the timing and character of the spread of modern humans out of Africa It also demonstrates that the evidence from Australasia should receive much wider and more serious consideration in its own right if we want to understand how our species achieved its global distribution Critically examining the Out of Africa model this book emphasises the context and variability of the global evidence in the search for human origins

Conceptual Issues in Modern Human Origins Research Geoffrey A. Clark,Catherine M. Willermet, While those who study human origins now agree that the evolution of modern human form extends back much further in time than the evolution of modern human behavior they disagree sharply as to how to interpret the substantive data Two fundamentally incommensurate interpretations of our origins the Replacement camp and the Continuity camp have now emerged out of pre existing models and theories that go back to the last quarter of the 19th century This book contends that these positions are based on radically different biases and assumptions about what the remote human past was like The purpose of this volume is to examine those conceptual differences not to arrive at a consensus but rather to explore the reasons why a consensus might never be possible

The Evolution of Human Wisdom Celia Deane-Drummond,Agustín Fuentes,2017-10-18 This volume addresses key questions about the puzzle of human origins by focusing on a topic that is largely unexplored thus far namely the evolution of human wisdom How can we best understand the human capacity for wisdom where did it come from and how did it emerge It explores lines of convergence and divergence between Christian theology and evolutionary anthropology in its search to identify different aspects of wisdom Critical to this discussion are the philosophical difficulties that arise when two very different methodological approaches to the manner of humans becoming wise are brought together The relative importance and significance of human language is another area of intense debate in defining the meaning of wisdom and its expression How far and to what extent does a theologically informed wisdom discourse push evolutionary anthropology to formulate new questions and vice versa This volume shows that there is no simple consonance between evolutionary anthropology and theology Yet each discipline has much to learn from the other the authors are in agreement that even in the midst of an awareness of dissonance and some tension there can still be mutual respect The goal of this book is to begin to develop a trans disciplinary approach to the evolution of human wisdom where each discipline is challenged to ask questions in a new way This volume tackles the relationship between theology and science in a fresh way by focusing on a specific theme wisdom that is equally generative for both theology and evolutionary anthropology

The Descent of Madness

Jonathan Burns, 2007-03-12 Drawing on evidence from across the behavioural and natural sciences this book advances a radical new hypothesis that madness exists as a costly consequence of the evolution of a sophisticated social brain in Homo sapiens Having explained the rationale for an evolutionary approach to psychosis the author makes a case for psychotic illness in our living ape relatives as well as in human ancestors He then reviews existing evolutionary theories of psychosis before introducing his own thesis that the same genes causing madness are responsible for the evolution of our highly social brain Jonathan Burns novel Darwinian analysis of the importance of psychosis for human survival provides some meaning for this form of suffering It also spurs us to a renewed commitment to changing our societies in a way that allows the mentally ill the opportunity of living The Descent of Madness will be of interest to those in the fields of psychiatry psychology sociology and anthropology and is also accessible to the general reader
