Diagramming Devotion Jeffrey F. Hamburger,2020-09-21 During the European Middle Ages diagrams provided a critical tool of analysis in cosmological and theological debates In addition to drawing relationships among diverse areas of human knowledge and experience diagrams themselves generated such knowledge in the first place In Diagramming Devotion Jeffrey F. Hamburger examines two monumental works that are diagrammatic to their core a famous set of picture poems of unrivaled complexity by the Carolingian monk Hrabanus Maurus devoted to the praise of the cross and a virtually unknown commentary on Hrabanus's work composed almost five hundred years later by the Dominican friar Berthold of Nuremberg. Berthold's profusely illustrated elaboration of Hrabanus translated his predecessor's poems into a series of almost one hundred diagrams. By examining Berthold of Nuremberg's transformation of a Carolingian classic, Hamburger brings modern and medieval visual culture into dialogue, traces important changes in medieval visual culture, and introduces new ways of thinking about diagrams as an enduring visual and conceptual model.

The Apocalyptic Year

1000 Richard Landes, Andrew Gow, David Van Meter, 2003-06-05 The essays in this book challenge prevailing views on the way in which apocalyptic concerns contributed to larger processes of social change at the first millennium. Several basic questions unify the essays: What chronological and theological assumptions underlay apocalyptic and millennial speculations around the Year 1000? How broadly disseminated were those speculations? Can we speak of a mentality of apocalyptic hopes and anxieties on the eve of the millennium? If so, how did authorities respond to or even contribute to the formation of this mentality? What were the social ramifications of apocalyptic hopes and anxieties and of any efforts to suppress or redirect the more radical impulses that bred them? How did contemporaries conceptualize and then historicize the passing of the millennial date of 1000? Including the work of British, French, German, Dutch, and American scholars, this book will be the definitive resource on this fascinating topic and should at the same time provoke new interest in and debate on the nature and causes of social change in early medieval Europe.

A World History of Art Hugh Honour, John Fleming, 2005 Over two decades this art historical tour de force has consistently proved the classic introduction to humanity's artistic heritage. From our paleolithic past to our digitised present, every continent and culture is covered in an articulate and well-balanced discussion. In this Seventh Edition, the text has been revised to embrace developments in archaeology and art historical research, while the renowned contemporary art historian Michael Archer has greatly expanded the discussion of the past twenty years, providing a new perspective on the latest developments. The insight, elegance, and fluency that the authors bring to their text are complemented by 1458 superb illustrations, half of which are now in colour. These images, together with the numerous maps and architectural plans, have been chosen to represent the most significant chronological, regional, and individual styles of artistic expression.

The Hammer and the Cross

Robert Ferguson, 2009 Now with the chamber boarded up, came what was probably the heart of the proceedings. Four or five dogs and two more oxen were slaughtered, as well as fifteen horses that had first been run to exhaustion. The furniture, tools, and carriages scattered across the foredeck were bathed in their blood. Stones were then piled over the ship, breaking many of the grave goods and rendering them unusable. The sights and sounds accompanying such an orgy of blood-letting, we might perhaps be able to imagine the atmosphere conjured by it, probably not. As the mourners then set about completing the mound, the sight before them must have been eerie and awe-inspiring: the blood-spattered ship with its cargo of dead women seeming to lurch forward across the field in a last attempt to shake off the engulfing wave of dark earth rising behind it The meadow flowers preserved from this stage of the proceedings were autumnal showing that the whole process from the opening of the furrow to the closing of the mound must have taken about four months Clearly at least one of the women had died long before the burial took place
