

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist and believes that African-Americans are inferior to white people. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. He becomes more accepting and respectful of them, and his attitude changes from one of prejudice to one of respect.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a diverse group of men from different backgrounds. Some were former slaves, some were free men, and some were educated. This diversity reflects the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America, as well as the different regions of origin and former status of the soldiers.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the movie have negative attitudes toward the 54th. They see them as inferior and believe that they are not worthy of being in the army. However, as the movie progresses, these attitudes change. The white soldiers begin to see the 54th as brave and courageous, and they begin to respect them more.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were paid less than white soldiers, and they were often given the most dangerous and difficult jobs. However, they were also given the same training and equipment as white soldiers, and they fought bravely in battle.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender is significant because it shows that he is a brave and courageous leader. He is willing to sacrifice his own life for the sake of his men, and he is determined to fight for the freedom of African-Americans.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings/arguments come over you last night?

The incident ended as I expected. The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was killed in battle, and Colonel Shaw was killed. However, their sacrifice was not in vain. They helped to prove to the white soldiers that African-Americans were brave and courageous, and they helped to win the war for the Union. Their story is a powerful reminder of the struggle for freedom and equality in America.
