Betsinger, Sharon N. DeWitte, 2020-11-05 Urbanization has long been a focus of bioarchaeological research but what is missing from the literature is an exploration of the geographic and temporal range of human biological demographic and sociocultural responses to this major shift in settlement pattern Urbanization is characterized by increased population size and density and is frequently assumed to produce negative biological effects However the relationship between urbanization and human health requires careful examination given the heterogeneity that exists within and between urban contexts Studies of contemporary urbanization have found both positive and negative outcomes which likely have parallels in past human societies This volume is unique as there is no current bioarchaeological book addressing urbanization despite various studies of urbanization having been conducted Collectively this volume provides a more holistic understanding of the relationships between urbanization and various aspects of human population health The insight gained from this volume will provide not only a better understanding of urbanization in our past but it will also have potential implications for those studying urbanization in contemporary communities Mesopotamian Civilization Daniel T. Potts, 1997-01-01 Likely to become a standard work for students of the ancient Near East and for those interested in the high cultures of the region this account is also a highly accessible repository of information valuable to archaeologists anthropologists etc Disease and Healing in the Indus Civilisation Robert Arnott, 2024-04-25 This book provides insights into health disease and healing in the Indus Civilisation during the third to early second millennia BCE Based on original research it examines skeletal remains material culture and environmental factors The book sheds light on diseases healing practices and public health in this ancient civilization Mega Mammals in Ancient India Shibani Bose, 2020-01-02 Since antiquity big mammals have inspired fear as well as fantasy among humans Not only do megafauna pervade the domains of religion art literature and folklore it is also now widely acknowledged that they can serve as important if not always adequate indices of environmental quality In this book Shibani Bose looks into eras bygone in order to chronicle the journeys of three mega mammals the rhinoceros elephant and tiger across millennia in early north India Carefully sifting through archaeological evidence and literary records in Sanskrit Pali Prakrit and classical Western accounts Bose documents the presence of these big mammals in diverse cultural contexts from hunter gatherer societies to the first urban civilization of India and beyond This work aims to reconstruct human interactions with these mega species through time while trying to understand the larger ecology of ancient India This book is especially well timed as the conservation of our megafaunal heritage is a major concern for biologists ecologists and conservationists It underlines the need to historicize human interactions with these mega mammals with the contention that awareness regarding their past is critical for their future Camels in the Biblical World Martin Heide, Joris Peters, 2021-10-26 Camels are first mentioned in the Bible as the movable property of Abraham During the early monarchy they feature prominently as long distance mounts for the Queen of Sheba and almost a millennium later the Gospels tell us about the impossibility of a camel passing through a needle's eye Given the limited extrabiblical evidence for camels before circa 1000 BCE a thorough investigation of the spatio temporal history of the camel in the ancient Near and Middle East is necessary to understand their early appearance in the Hebrew Bible Camels in the Biblical World is a two part study that charts the cultural trajectories of two domestic species the two humped or Bactrian camel Camelus bactrianus and the one humped or Arabian camel Camelus dromedarius from the fourth through first millennium BCE and up to the first century CE Drawing on archaeological camel remains iconography inscriptions and other text sources the first part reappraises the published data on the species domestication and early exploitation in their respective regions of origin The second part takes a critical look at the various references to camels in the Hebrew Bible and the Gospels providing a detailed philological analysis of each text and referring to archaeological data and zoological observations whenever appropriate A state of the art evaluation of the cultural history of the camel and its role in the biblical world this volume brings the humanities into dialogue with the natural sciences The novel insights here serve scholars in disciplines as diverse as biblical studies zoo archaeology history and philology A Companion to South Asia in the Past Gwen Robbins Schug, Subhash R. Walimbe, 2016-04-13 A Companion to South Asia in the Past provides the definitive overview of research and knowledge about South Asia's past from the Pleistocene to the historic era in India Pakistan Sri Lanka Bangladesh and Nepal provided by a truly global team of experts The most comprehensive and detailed scholarly treatment of South Asian archaeology and biological anthropology providing ground breaking new ideas and future challenges Provides an in depth and broad view of the current state of knowledge about South Asia's past from the Pleistocene to the historic era in India Pakistan Sri Lanka Bangladesh and Nepal A comprehensive treatment of research in a crucial region for human evolution and biocultural adaptation A global team of scholars together present a varied set of perspectives on South Asian pre and proto history

Meath, Ireland Stephen Davis, Caitríona Moore, 2024-04-30 Initial remote sensing survey at Tlachtga Co Meath in 2011-12 highlighted the presence of multiple partially overlapping phases of enclosure at the site Three subsequent seasons of excavation provided critical interpretive evidence with over 15 000 fragments of animal bone human remains charred plant material evidence of metalworking and a hoard of Anglo Saxon silver coins dating to the late 10th century AD The main activity at the site spans four broad periods and two main phases of monumental construction a late Bronze Age to early Iron Age Hillfort Phase 1100 400 BC and a late Iron Age to early medieval AD 400 600 ringfort phase associated with a smaller foundation enclosure the Southern Enclosure This ringfort phase was remodeled later in the early medieval period 9th 10th century AD and augmented by a phase of mound construction in the mid 10th century AD This is contemporary with the deposition of the coin hoard east of the main complex in an apparent craft working area The final phase of the central mound indicates the construction of a timber stockade most likely in the 12th century again with significant craft activity This volume represents the excavation of at least four loci within the broader monumental landscape of Tlachtga charting its progression from Bronze Age hillfort to pre Anglo Norman power display mound The excavations at the Hill of Ward and this publication were made possible through funding by the National Monuments Service via the Royal Irish Academy archaeological research excavation grants and by Meath County Council with additional support by the Office of Public Works and the Heritage Council

Social Zooarchaeology Nerissa Russell, 2011-11-14 This is the first book to provide a systematic overview of social zooarchaeology which takes a holistic view of human animal relations in the past Until recently archaeological analysis of faunal evidence has primarily focused on the role of animals in the human diet and subsistence economy This book however argues that animals have always played many more roles in human societies as wealth companions spirit helpers sacrificial victims totems centerpieces of feasts objects of taboos and more These social factors are as significant as taphonomic processes in shaping animal bone assemblages Nerissa Russell uses evidence derived from not only zooarchaeology but also ethnography history and classical studies to suggest the range of human animal relationships and to examine their importance in human society Through exploring the significance of animals to ancient humans this book provides a richer picture of past societies
