London Underground , The Fall of the House of Speyer George W. Liebmann,2015-08-06 The dramatic story of the last fifty years of the Speyer banking dynasty a Jewish family of German descent is surprisingly little known today yet at the turn of the 20th century Speyer was the third largest investment banking firm in the United States behind only Morgan and Kuhn Loeb It had branches in London Frankfurt and New York and the projects it financed included the Southern Pacific Railroad the London Underground and the infrastructure of the new Cuban republic Later it was the first major banking firm to finance Germany's Weimar Republic as well as providing League of Nations loans to Hungary Greece and Bulgaria Yet the firm was doomed by the nationalist passions aroused by World War I Its English partner was denaturalised and exiled its American partner enjoyed reduced standing because of his connection to Germany and the Frankfurt branch closed with the coming of the Third Reich its German partner fleeing into exile The firm was dissolved in 1939 a surprisingly anticlimactic end to one of the great international banking companies of modern times George W Liebmann here tells the story of the firm and the family shedding new light on the protagonists of a remarkable dynasty who came undone in the dramatic years of the early 20th century London Underground David

Ashford,2013-05-10 Surveying an unusually wide variety of material ranging from the Victorian triple decker novel to Modernist art and architecture to Pop music and graffiti this book suggests that the tube network is a transitional form linking the alienated spaces of Victorian England to the virtual spaces of our contemporary consumer capitalism The London Underground and the public-private partnership agreements Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons:

Transport Committee,2008-01-25 This report from the Transport Committee examines London Underground and the Public Private Partnership Agreements The Government originally announced proposals for modernising the London Underground network system via Public Private Partnership PPP agreements in 1998 Three contracts were drawn up with i Tube Lines for the maintenance and renewal of the Jubilee Piccadilly and Northern Lines ii with Metronet Rail BVC for the maintenance and renewal of the Bakerloo Central Victoria iii with Metronet Rail SSL responsible for the maintenance and renewal of the sub surface lines the Circle District Hammersmith stations that were supposed to cost Metronet SSL 2m cost 7.5m with only 65% of schedule track renewal accomplished the Committee criticises the consequences of the imposition of PPP on Transport for London as a lamentable state of affairs with the future of most of London Underground's upgrade and maintenance work in doubt the Committee states that the Government should remember the failure of Metronet before it considers entering similar arrangements that the Government should publish a candid analysis of the events preceding Metronet's collapse and its consequences the Committee believe that the PPP model was flawed and probably inferior to traditional public sector management that the Government needs to prioritise transparency and clarity to taxpayers and ensure that any future contracts result in clear accountability

The failure of Metronet Great Britain: National Audit Office,2009-06-05 Metronet a private infrastructure company responsible for the maintenance and upgrade of sections of the London Underground went into administration in July 2007 Transport for London TfL guaranteed 95 per cent of Metronet's borrowing with the Secretary of State for Transport assuring Metronet's lenders that the Department for Transport DfT would not just stand by should London Underground or TfL be unable to honour this guarantee When Metronet failed the DfT made a 1.7 billion payment to meet the guarantee so that the running of the Underground would not be compromised London Underground managed the Metronet contract but DfT had a responsibility to protect the taxpayer from any financial liability The PPP contracts gave the DfT few formal levers to protect the taxpayer leaving the DfT to rely upon other parties including London Underground TfL and Metronet's shareholders and lenders When these parties did not resolve Metronet's problems and Metronet failed the taxpayer was left exposed This exposure crystallized in the early repayment of 1.7 billion to Metronet's lenders and a loss to the taxpayer equivalent to between 4 per cent and 10 per cent of the work delivered 170.410 million DfT needs to consider how to reduce future risks to the taxpayer and with the Mayor of London how best to ensure effective and efficient delivery of improvements and maintenance of the Underground The DfT sees TfL's ownership of Metronet as an interim solution and a joint decision from the Secretary of State for Transport and the Mayor of London on a long term solution is awaited
